Korean War Lull Is Reported With Sino Withdrawal

Allied Bombers Blow Up Bridges Across Yalu River at Border of Manchuria—Diplomacy Has World Spotlight

Seoul, Nov. 9 (AP)—A puzzling lull marked the Korean war today.

The diplomatic front had taken the spotlight. Communist China was asked by the United Nations Security Council to answer charges of throwing tens of thousands of Red troops into the twilight stages of the campaign.

The charges, by U.N. Commander General MacArthur, were followed up today by a chapter-and-verse appraisal by his Tokyo spokesman:

Sixty thousand Chinese Red troops in far North Korea and as many more available immediately in Manchuria.

Not Due to Inability

Hence, the lull wasn't due to Red inability to keep up the pressure that last week forced hasty U.N. withdrawals in northwest Korea. The Chinese, themselves having pulled back this week seemed to be awaiting further orders.

Allied ground forces moved cautiously ahead for short distances, continuing consolidations started gradually four days ago. Up until late today the only noteworthy development was a strike by carrier-based dive-bombers on two railroad bridges across the Yalu river boundary between Manchuria and Northwest Korea.

The U. S. Navy said its sky raiders whammed the bridges—at bomb-rubbled Sinuiju—with 1,000 and 2,000-pound bombs. Sinuiju, a city of about 100,000, was reported 90 per cent destroyed in Wednesday's heavy B-29 raid.

Heavy Fire Greets Planes

Dive bombers from the carrier Philippine Sea ran into heavy anti-aircraft fire as they pounded the twin spans.

U. S. Navy Panther jet fighters, flying cover for the bombers, warded off four Russian-made MIG-15 jet fighters and shot down one in history's second death fight between jets. The first was Wednesday, when U. S. F-80 Shooting Stars downed one MIG-15 and damaged another.

On the ground, evidence was multiplying that Chinese troops were the main barrier to the Yalu river boundary and the end of the Korean conflict, which began June 25 with an invasion of the U.N. sponsored republic in the south.

Three South Korean army officers who walked 150 miles through Red lines said North Korean troops had vanished; that only Chinese seemed to be fighting north of the Chongchon river. The three were stragglers from the Seventh Regiment of the Republic of Korea (R.O.K.) Sixth Division.

Regiment Cut Off

The regiment had reached the Manchurian border north of Onjong but was cut off in the fierce Red counteroffensive and virtually wiped out.

MacArthur's spokesman said the Chinese troops were well trained and disciplined. Neither he nor U. S. Eighth Army officers made any forecast on the next Chinese move.

A U. S. 10th Corps spokesman said the Chinese 184th Division was in retreat from the big Changjin power dam front in north-central Korea where U. S. Marines had been measuring advances in yards.

Small gains were reported by the U. S. Seventh Division which was within 24 miles of the Manchurian border on the east coast.

Troops Make Advance

On the northwestern front, British commonwealth troops and elements of the U. S. 24th Division advanced unopposed as much as three miles north of Kumu and from a line running westward from the Chongchon river front.

The British said they found evidence of a hasty withdrawal by the Reds northwest of Pakchon. Many bodies were found.

At sea, a fast U. S. carrier task force ranged the North Korean coasts.

Naval bombardment routed an estimated 1,000 Reds holed up at Oummi Island, nine miles across the bay from the east coast port of Wonsan. Wonsan has become a major U.N. supply base for the northeastern front.

Dewey Victory Is Along Pattern of His Public Career

Governor Has Often Been Strong in Defeat; Chances in 1952 Are Weighed

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 9 (AP)—Political circles wondered today whether Governor Dewey would stick to his announced intention of not seeking the 1952 Republican presidential nomination.

They recalled that time after time Dewey has been thrashed only to bound back as strong, if not stronger than ever.

They know, and he knows, that the odds are heavy against him. But political fortunes take peculiar twists and turns.

Dewey's comeback Tuesday fell perfectly into the pattern of his up-and-down political career.

Freshly famous as Manhattan's racket-busting district attorney, Dewey at the tender political age of 36 won the Republican gubernatorial nomination in 1938 but lost the election—by only 64,300 votes—to Democratic Governor Herbert H. Lehman.

Dewey looked strong in defeat, and he went after the G.O.P. presidential nomination two years later. But Wendell Willkie blitzed him.

Court Fight Looms In Macy Contest

Conflicting Claims Made by Congressman and Greenwood

Islip, N. Y., Nov. 9 (AP)—A court battle was in prospect today to decide the congressional race between Rep. W. Kingsland Macy, Suffolk county Republican boss, and Ernest Greenwood, Democrat-Liberal challenger.

Conflicting claims and varying figures still left the race in doubt. Macy supporters placed the Republican margin as low as 30 and as high as 127 out of a total of 150,000 votes.

Greenwood's followers claimed as low as a tie, and as high a margin as 79 votes.

The Suffolk county board of elections late yesterday made available tally sheets that appeared to show Macy had carried that county by a 1,805-vote margin. Unofficially, they reported that Greenwood had carried the 102 districts in Nassau county by 1,678, making the 127 figure claimed by Macy.

These figures were cited by sources friendly to Macy. They added up to a combined vote of 76,297 for Macy and 76,170 for Greenwood. Two years ago Macy won by a vote of 101,924 to 45,812.

An official recheck of the vote will be made when the legal canvass starts next Tuesday. The tally must be completed in 10 days. Meantime the voting machines for the district have been placed under guard.

Greenwood, charging Macy henchmen had not counted some of his Liberal votes, prepared to appeal to the courts if the official tally does not declare him the winner.

Error Is Discovered

Through an error in tabulation Wednesday it was reported the vote for Assemblyman John F. Wadlin in the second district of Shandaken had been 65 with 112 votes for Joseph Koenig, his opponent. The correct figure for Assemblyman Wadlin was 167 votes and 112 for Koenig. Wadlin carried all three districts in Shandaken.

Bell System Workers Go Out at Dawn

Equipment Group Is Affected in 44 States in Contract Dispute With Company

May Cancel Calls

Spread of Walkout May Hamper Telephone Service

New York, Nov. 9 (AP)—Key equipment workers struck the vast Bell Telephone System today, threatening a coast-to-coast tieup that could cripple the nation's communication system.

The walkout began officially at dawn on the east coast and spread gradually across the country as the 6 a. m., local time strike deadline came and went.

Thirty-three thousand phone equipment workers in 44 states were called out in a contract dispute.

The strikers are members of the C.I.O. Communications Workers of America. They threw up picket lines around telephone exchanges and company warehouses—a maneuver designed to keep nearly 300,000 fellow members of their union, including telephone operators, away from work. The union has instructed its entire membership to respect the picket lines.

Pickets Are Placed

Within minutes after the start of the walkout pickets deployed around phone company buildings in New York, Washington, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Des Moines, Kansas City and Oklahoma City and Dallas.

In New York city, some long distance operators reported for work at 7 a. m. (E.S.T.) but refused to cross the equipment workers' picket lines. In Akron, Ohio, pickets blocked two entrances to the telephone building but some employes were escorted through the lines by police. The window of a company car was broken but no one was hurt.

In Kansas City, long distance calls were being accepted by the company on an "emergency basis" only.

Official start of the strike in the eastern time zone was announced by Robert G. Pollock, the union's national strike director.

C.W.A. President Joseph A. Beirne confirmed that "the strike is on."

Manually-operated service would be disrupted in most of the nation, he claimed.

Service Would Continue

But he added that dial telephone service probably would continue "at least until the equipment breaks down" and isn't repaired

Steel for Crossing Bridge Arrives

The first load of steel for the railroad crossing elimination project on Broadway arrived in this city this morning.

The shipment, consisting of three railroad carloads, includes all the steel for the railroad bridge which will cross over Broadway, with the exception of the main girders.

Unloading is expected to start today, although the contractor will not be ready to use the steel until excavation is completed.

Broadway is scheduled to be closed to vehicular traffic Tuesday while work on the project progresses, according to an announcement by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk.

Man Bought U. S. Surplus Valued at Million for $6.89

Then He Sold It Back to Government for $63,000, Probe Reveals

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—The story of an east Texas farmer who bought $1,209,600 worth of surplus military equipment for only $6.89 and later sold it back to the government for $63,000 was brought to light today by the Senate Defense Investigating Committee.

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson (D.-Tex.) committee chairman, declined to identify the purchaser by name. He did say the man was a naval officer in World War 2 and had made the bargain in the process of acquiring some $3,000 worth of surplus equipment for his farm.

Checking over the government catalogue of surplus items, the farmer ran across a listing of aircraft computors. Guessing them to be small cardboard devices that could be used for calculating the land area of farms, he put in a bid of less than 5 cents each for 168 of them.

Occupied Acre

Learning his bid had been accepted he asked surplus disposal authorities at San Antonio, Tex., to send them to him parcel post. They replied that such a delivery was impossible, the computors occupied about an acre of ground

Coldest Weather Chills Some Areas

Frigid Air Extends From Rockies to Indiana; Snow Reported

The coldest weather of the season with blizzard conditions in some areas—chilled western and central parts of the country today.

There was a freezing line from the Rockies to northern Indiana and the cold Canadian air pushed south into central Texas and Arkansas. Readings were near zero in parts of the cold belt in the Rocky mountain region.

Storm warnings were posted for the Great Lakes as winds up to 40 miles an hour were forecast.

Snow in Some Sections

A seven-inch blanket of snow covered Denver and Lander, Wyo. There was a carpet of white measuring five inches at Cheyenne, Wyo., and Devils Lake, N. D. The fall at International Falls, Minn., measured more than six inches.

Snow, whipped by winds up to 50 miles an hour, fell over the Red river valley to a depth of from two to four inches last night. Highway traffic was slowed and airline flights cancelled at the peak of the storm.

Resolution to Demand Withdrawal of Alien Forces in Korea

Lake Success, Nov. 9 (AP)—The United States intended today to press without delay its charges of Chinese Communist intervention in Korea despite the apparent inclination of some other members of the Security Council to proceed slowly with the case.

An American source said the U. S. delegation is making a final check with Washington on the wording of its resolution and might bring the document into the U.N. today.

The resolution is understood to demand the withdrawal of alien forces — Chinese Communists — fighting in support of the North Korean Reds and to call on all governments to refrain from assisting the North Koreans.

The Security Council's next scheduled meeting is for Friday afternoon on the Palestine case. The United States delegation could call for a meeting before that on the Korean issue, possibly Friday morning.

Won't Be Dormant

In any event, the American source said, the United States does not intend to let the matter lie dormant for any length of time while the council awaits the arrival of Chinese Communist representatives to answer the charges leveled against the Peiping regime by Gen. MacArthur. The United States, the informant explained, is ready to proceed whether or not the Chinese Reds have arrived at Lake Success.

Warren R. Austin, chief American delegate, told the council yesterday that the Chinese Communists had recklessly thrown 30,000 regular troops against the United

Congress May 'Up' Taxes Once Again To Highest Level

Issue Will Be Reviewed November 27 When Lawmakers Meet at Capitol

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—Congress may increase taxes again, perhaps to the highest level on record, notwithstanding the turn of political fortunes in Tuesday's elections.

The tax issue—on a multi-billion-dollar war excess profits levy—is scheduled for consideration when the present Congress reconvenes Nov. 27. The idea back of it is to prevent profiteering, curb inflation and provide money for guns.

In the face of vast spending in the Korean war, and threats of other Communist aggression else-

Republicans Gain In State Senate, Assembly Same

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 9 (AP)—Despite an inter-party swap involving 10 seats, the political lineup of the 1951 state Assembly will remain the same—87 Republicans and 63 Democrats.

The Republicans, however, widened their Senate majority from 31-25 to 33-23.

The G.O.P. unseated five Assembly Democrats, but lost five Republican seats to the Democrats for a standoff.

Earlier reports of a slight G.O.P. gain in the Assembly were revised by final returns that showed the re-election of Democrats Hulan E. Jack, in the 14th Manhattan district, and J. Lewis Fox, in the 12th District of Queens.

President Will Find Hard Going

Shifting Coalition Will Make Majority of Decisions in 82nd Congress

Acheson Is Target

Secretary of State Faces Rough Going on Big Issues

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—President Truman faced the hard necessity today of compromising with a preponderantly hostile Congress on domestic and foreign proposals.

Although Democrats held onto numerical control of both Houses in Tuesday's election, there was little remaining doubt that Mr. Truman is up against the toughest opposition he has been confronted with since the Republicans won control of the 80th Congress.

A shifting coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats will make most of the major decisions in the new 82nd Congress, which convenes in January.

Heartened by the election results, the same group will have a lot to say about what happens in the final meeting of the 81st, scheduled to resume Nov. 27—or sooner if the President calls it back.

On foreign policy questions, the President probably faces even stiffer opposition than he encountered in 1947 and 1948 when the G.O.P.-controlled Congress was riding high. In those days the lawmakers were primarily concerned—in a relatively peaceful world—with such domestic issues as price control and the absence of commodities on the post-war market.

Foreign Policy Emphasis

But the Korean war and the moves to rearm western Europe against possible Russian attack will lay emphasis on foreign policy in the new year's session. The Marshall Plan windup in Europe and a possible Pacific Defense Pact will vie for top attention.

Republicans seemed convinced they won major election laurels on the basis of their attack on what Guy G. Gabrielson, the G.O.P. national chairman, has called "bungling" by the administration in handling foreign affairs—particularly in the Far East.

They can be expected to renew their attack on Secretary of State Acheson, one of the prime targets for the Communist-in-government charges of Senator McCarthy (R-Wis). McCarthy's charges were given a new lustre by defeat of Senator Millard E. Tydings, Maryland Democrat. Tydings headed the foreign relations subcommittee which investigated the charges. The three-man Democratic majority dismissed them as a "fraud and hoax." Many Republicans contended the majority report was a "whitewash."

Could Pull Punch

President Truman probably could pull a lot of the Republican punch against his international program by firing Acheson. But Mr. Truman is a man noted for sticking by his appointive friends.

Of course, Mr. Truman dismissed Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson during the campaign. Johnson left office on a wave of resentment against the early reverses in the Korean campaign.

Some Republicans said at the time that the President fired the wrong man—that the vacant cabinet chair should have been Acheson's. But Mr. Truman had made his choice between the two men and there was every indication he would stick to it.

If he is willing to compromise,

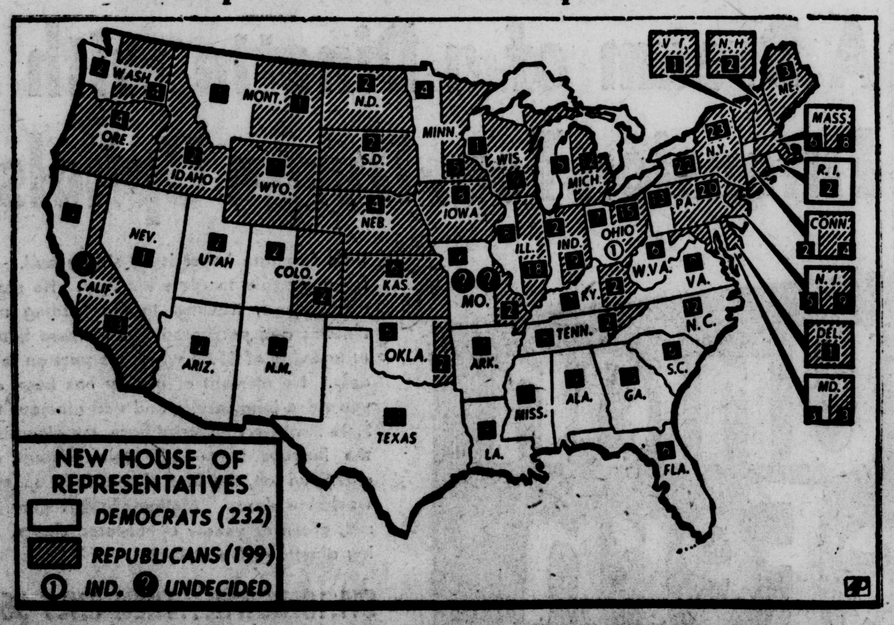
Makeup of New House of Representatives



Map shows the political makeup of the new House of Representatives as a result of the Nov. 7 elections. Three seats still are to be decided—two in Missouri where absentee ballots are expected to decide both races and one in California. In Missouri's Sixth District, a Republican has a slight lead, while a Democrat has a slim margin in the state's Third District. A Democrat is a bit in the van in the 18th District of California. One independent was elected—in Ohio.

Kingston Hospital Drive Will Begin November 15

Launched by a dinner meeting for several hundred volunteers, the public campaign of the $850,000 Kingston Hospital Building Fund will begin November 15 throughout Ulster county.

In this phase of the building fund movement, residents of the entire area served by the hospital will be given an opportunity to join in the creation of the enlarged hospital, and to help provide for their own future health protection and that of their families.

The opening dinner for all members of the volunteer organization will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel November 14 at 7 p. m. Among the campaign leaders who will give brief reports will be: John D. Schoonmaker, Jr., president of the board of trustees and chairman of the fund; and the following chairmen of the advance committees: Dr. Douw S. Meyers, doctors; Allan L. Hanstein, memorial gifts; C. S. Rowland, corporations. Also at the head table will be the top leadership of the public campaign: Abraham Streifer, general chairman; John J. Schwenk, Kingston chairman; Walter G. Williams, county chairman.

During the period of the public campaign, from November 15 until November 30, a series of report meetings will be held at the Governor Clinton. At these meetings for team captains in Kingston and for chairmen of towns in the county, the progress of the campaign will be reported. Each of the report meetings has been scheduled for 12:15 p. m. and will be held November 17, November

Snow in Some Sections

A seven-inch blanket of snow covered Denver and Lander, Wyo. There was a carpet of white measuring five inches at Cheyenne, Wyo., and Devils Lake, N. D. The fall at International Falls, Minn., measured more than six inches.

Snow, whipped by winds up to 50 miles an hour, fell over the Red river valley to a depth of from two to four inches last night. Highway traffic was slowed and airline flights cancelled at the peak of the storm.

Colder weather was forecast for

Resolution to Demand Withdrawal of Alien Forces in Korea

Lake Success, Nov. 9 (AP)—The United States intended today to press without delay its charges of Chinese Communist intervention in Korea despite the apparent inclination of some other members of the Security Council to proceed slowly with the case.

An American source said the U. S. delegation is making a final check with Washington on the wording of its resolution and might bring the document into the U.N. today.

The resolution is understood to demand the withdrawal of alien forces — Chinese Communists — fighting in support of the North Korean Reds and to call on all governments to refrain from assisting the North Koreans.

The Security Council's next scheduled meeting is for Friday afternoon on the Palestine case. The United States delegation could call for a meeting before that on the Korean issue, possibly Friday morning.

Won't Be Dormant

In any event, the American source said, the United States does not intend to let the matter lie dormant for any length of time while the council awaits the arrival of Chinese Communist representatives to answer the charges leveled against the Peiping regime by Gen. MacArthur. The United States, the informant explained, is ready to proceed whether or not the Chinese Reds have arrived at Lake Success.

Warren R. Austin, chief American delegate, told the council yesterday that the Chinese Communists had recklessly thrown 30,000 regular troops against the United

Congress May 'Up' Taxes Once Again To Highest Level

Issue Will Be Reviewed November 27 When Lawmakers Meet at Capitol

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—Congress may increase taxes again, perhaps to the highest level on record, notwithstanding the turn of political fortunes in Tuesday's elections.

The tax issue—on a multi-billion-dollar war excess profits levy—is scheduled for consideration when the present Congress reconvenes Nov. 27. The idea back of it is to prevent profiteering, curb inflation and provide money for guns.

In the face of vast spending in the Korean war, and threats of other Communist aggression else-

Republicans Gain In State Senate, Assembly Same

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 9 (AP)—Despite an inter-party swap involving 10 seats, the political lineup of the 1951 state Assembly will remain the same—87 Republicans and 63 Democrats.

The Republicans, however, widened their Senate majority from 31-25 to 33-23.

The G.O.P. unseated five Assembly Democrats, but lost five Republican seats to the Democrats for a standoff.

Earlier reports of a slight G.O.P. gain in the Assembly were revised by final returns that showed the re-election of Democrats Hulan E. Jack, in the 14th Manhattan district, and J. Lewis Fox, in the 12th District of Queens.

President Will Find Hard Going

Shifting Coalition Will Make Majority of Decisions in 82nd Congress

Acheson Is Target

Secretary of State Faces Rough Going on Big Issues

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—President Truman faced the hard necessity today of compromising with a preponderantly hostile Congress on domestic and foreign proposals.

Although Democrats held onto numerical control of both Houses in Tuesday's election, there was little remaining doubt that Mr. Truman is up against the toughest opposition he has been confronted with since the Republicans won control of the 80th Congress.

A shifting coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats will make most of the major decisions in the new 82nd Congress, which convenes in January.

Heartened by the election results, the same group will have a lot to say about what happens in the final meeting of the 81st, scheduled to resume Nov. 27—or sooner if the President calls it back.

On foreign policy questions, the President probably faces even stiffer opposition than he encountered in 1947 and 1948 when the G.O.P.-controlled Congress was riding high. In those days the lawmakers were primarily concerned—in a relatively peaceful world—with such domestic issues as price control and the absence of commodities on the post-war market.

Foreign Policy Emphasis

But the Korean war and the moves to rearm western Europe against possible Russian attack will lay emphasis on foreign policy in the new year's session. The Marshall Plan windup in Europe and a possible Pacific Defense Pact will vie for top attention.

Republicans seemed convinced they won major election laurels on the basis of their attack on what Guy G. Gabrielson, the G.O.P. national chairman, has called "bungling" by the administration in handling foreign affairs—particularly in the Far East.

They can be expected to renew their attack on Secretary of State Acheson, one of the prime targets for the Communist-in-government charges of Senator McCarthy (R-Wis). McCarthy's charges were given a new lustre by defeat of Senator Millard E. Tydings, Maryland Democrat. Tydings headed the foreign relations subcommittee which investigated the charges. The three-man Democratic majority dismissed them as a "fraud and hoax." Many Republicans contended the majority report was a "whitewash."

Could Pull Punch

President Truman probably could pull a lot of the Republican punch against his international program by firing Acheson. But Mr. Truman is a man noted for sticking by his appointive friends.

Of course, Mr. Truman dismissed Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson during the campaign. Johnson left office on a wave of resentment against the early reverses in the Korean campaign.

Some Republicans said at the time that the President fired the wrong man—that the vacant cabinet chair should have been Acheson's. But Mr. Truman had made his choice between the two men and there was every indication he would stick to it.

If he is willing to compromise,

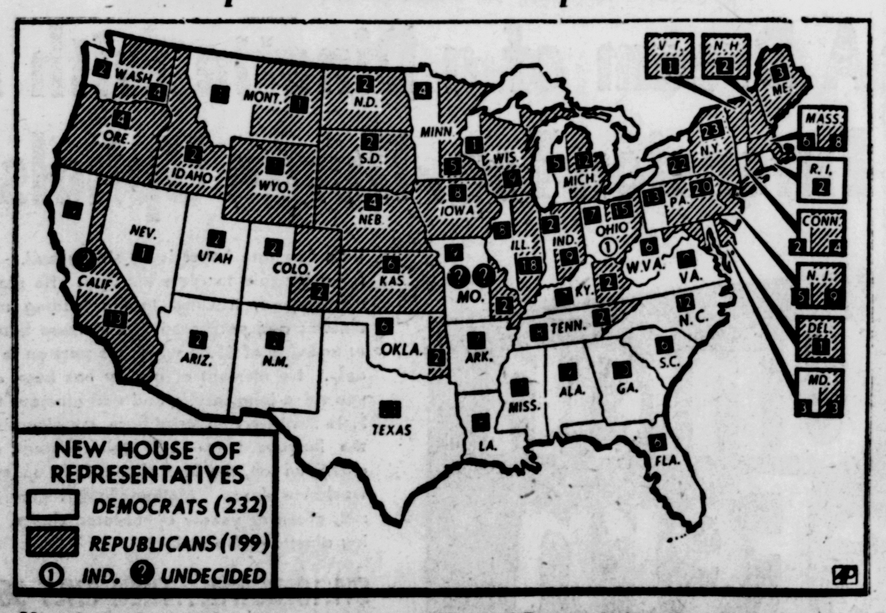
Arizona Names Republican

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 9 (AP)—Arizona, a Democratic stronghold, has elected a Republican governor, on the basis of nearly complete returns from Tuesday's election. Howard Pyle, 44-year-old GOP nominee, held in increasing lead of more than 3,000 votes with complete tabulations from 456 of the state's 481 precincts and incomplete from 25. The count stood at 96,143 for Pyle and 93,041 for Mrs. Ana Fromiller, the Democratic standard bearer and first woman to run for governor in this state.

Makeup of New House of Representatives



Map shows the political makeup of the new House of Representatives as a result of the Nov. 7 elections. Three seats still are to be decided—two in Missouri where absentee ballots are expected to decide both races and one in California. In Missouri's Sixth District, a Republican has a slim margin in the state's Third District. A Democrat is a bit in the van in the 18th District of California. One independent was elected—in Ohio.

Kingston Hospital Drive Will Begin November 15

Launched by a dinner meeting for several hundred volunteers, the public campaign of the $850,000 Kingston Hospital Building Fund will begin November 15 throughout Ulster county.

In this phase of the building fund movement, residents of the entire area served by the hospital will be given an opportunity to join in the creation of the enlarged hospital, and to help provide for their own future health protection and that of their families.

The opening dinner for all members of the volunteer organization will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel November 14 at 7 p. m. Among the campaign leaders who will give brief reports will be: John D. Schoonmaker, Jr., president of the board of trustees and chairman of the fund; and the following chairmen of the advance committees: Dr. Douw S. Meyers, doctors; Allan L. Hanstein, memorial gifts; C. S. Rowland, corporations. Also at the head table will be the top leadership of the public campaign: Abraham Streifer, general chairman; John J. Schwenk, Kingston chairman; Walter G. Williams, county chairman.

During the period of the public campaign, from November 15 until November 30, a series of report meetings will be held at the Governor Clinton. At these meetings for team captains in Kingston and for chairmen of towns in the county, the progress of the campaign will be reported. Each of the report meetings has been scheduled for 12:15 p. m. and will be held November 17, November

G.O.P. Will Hold Governorships in 25 Statehouses

(By The Associated Press)

Republicans today were certain of control of a majority of state administrations in the next two years to give them a grass roots foundation for a drive toward victory in the 1952 presidential election.

With only the Arizona governorship undecided, the G.O.P. had cinched domination of 25 statehouses as a result of victories in Tuesday's balloting.

The Republican nominee in Arizona, Howard Pyle, was leading Mrs. Ana Frohmiller, Democrat, by more than 2,000 votes with the tally nearly complete.

If Pyle wins, the final Republican margin in governorships will be 26 to 22.

Democrats had a 29 to 19 edge after the 1948 election. But G.O.P. candidates won 22 of the 33 posts at stake this year. In the process they ousted Democratic administrations in Colorado, Connecticut, Maryland, Michigan, Nevada and New Mexico.

Republicans retained control in the country's three most populous states—New York, California and Pennsylvania. They overturned the Democrats in another big industrial state—Michigan.

Democrats won in two populous states—Ohio and Texas. They retained control of another—Illinois—where there was no gubernatorial election this year.

Flashlights Guide Party With Dead

Butte, Mont., Nov. 9 (AP) — Flashlights guided exhausted men down the steep west slope of the Continental Divide last night with the charred remains of the 22 persons who died when an airliner crashed against the mountains in a blizzard.

Each of the bodies was encased in a "burial bag"—plastic sack. It was carried over the top of the divide and down a stretch of rocks, windfalls and brush covered with up to a foot of snow, to a waiting train. Then the bodies were brought here.

The Northwest Airlines Martin 202 smashed into the north wall of Homestake Pass at an altitude of about 8,500 feet.

Four crew members and 18 passengers died instantly.

A blizzard hindered, then halted, the search Tuesday. Early yesterday the airplane's bright red tail guided searchers to the wreckage. The rest of the plane was burned.

Won't Lift Ban

London, Nov. 9 (AP) — Britain's movie owners have refused to lift their two-year ban on films written by Ben Hecht. The ban was imposed because the movie men felt Hecht had exhibited a strong anti-British attitude during the Palestine flareup in 1947. The general council of the Cinema Owners Association voted 36 to 15 last night to ban three new films written wholly or in part by Hecht — "Love Happy," "Where the Sidewalk Ends" and "Whirlpool."

About 20 per cent of Korea's 54,532,000 acres is under cultivation.

EXCESS PROFITS TAX LAW

It's generally accepted that when Congress returns it will lay the groundwork for more new taxes. All signs point to an excess profits tax, which the majority of lawmakers appear to regard as politically necessary in a time of trial.

Some words of warning against that kind of tax were uttered the other day, but they probably came too late to make much of an impact. They came from Beardsley Ruml, New York corporation tax expert, and from Dr. Harley Lutz, who prepared a tax study for the National Association of Manufacturers.

In a good many quarters, of course, any spokesman with the NAM stamp is automatically a "black reactionary" not worth listening to. And Ruml probably doesn't enjoy much better standing in such circles.

Fair-minded Americans, however, consider arguments from every source, and try to measure them on their merits.

In this instance, both Lutz and Ruml have concluded that the excess profits tax is unworkable and inequitable. They base their conviction not upon theory but upon the country's past experience with the levy. The recent period of World War II provides perhaps the fullest test.

The chief problem with the tax is how to siphon off earnings definitely attributable to war or defense production without hurting growing businesses. Many firms, not directly benefitted by military orders, may nevertheless enjoy higher profits in a crisis period because of the natural development of their business. An excess profits tax almost certainly will penalize that growth.

Because it is so difficult to write a fair law, all sorts of loopholes are permitted to accommodate hardship cases. If the proponents of the tax think this is a piddling problem, it might be well to remind them that 22,000 individual hardship cases born of World War II days are still unsettled.

Moreover, Ruml and Lutz are convinced such a levy promotes waste and extravagance in business, since many businessmen will choose to spend extra sums on advertising, unwise plant expansion and even useless frills rather than report higher earnings. The result, they say, is a boost for inflation.

One may rightly question the concern for the public interest of men who respond to the tax this way. But there's no way to stop them. And since one goal of higher taxes is to prevent inflation, an excess profits levy seems something less than perfect for the job.

Lutz, and presumably Ruml, too, are not arguing against increasing taxes. In his study Lutz suggests that a better job will be done merely by hiking regular corporate income taxes. He says this will produce a sure revenue, help curb inflation and avoid the unequal effects of the excess profits measure.

Congress may be in no mood to consider this alternative. But at the very least it should compel the advocates of the excess profits tax to show how it can be applied fairly and effectively. Judging from the record, that's a pretty heavy burden of proof to carry.

Americans' votes each election time reflect the might of the individual. History has recorded several instances when but a lone vote has carried the balloting in one direction or another. In large numbers they may overwhelm a candidate, but even singly they may be decisive. The moral is obvious.

The market basket may bring home meat, butter, eggs, beans, spinach and potatoes, but never, in the youngster's opinion, anything to eat.

Out in Bellingham, Washington, a penny-counting machine was discovered to be delivering 50-cent rolls containing 55 pennies. Nothing like that ever happens to us.

Doubtless it is the official hope that the shipment of American food to Yugoslavia, to help relieve the effects of a drouth, will bolster Tito's government and be a further indication to him and the Yugoslavs that the American hand of friendship is extended to opponents of the Russian satellite system. It also can be hoped that Yugoslavs will be able to detect a note of humanitarianism; we are doing for them, only what we have done for many others in similar plights.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

RELIGION AS A MILITARY ARM

Czarist Russia used the orthodox church as an arm of government. It was a national church, at the head of which stood the Czar. The church itself was not directed by its ecclesiastical authority but by a civilian official, the procurator of the holy synod. This developed into a vast propagandistic arm of the Russian government for the spread of Pan-Slavism, the concept that the Slavic races have a special destiny and will ultimately rule the world.

Bolsheviks and other revolutionary groups hated the orthodox church as they hate all religions of God, whatever their concept of the supernatural. In Lenin's time, the "Society of the Godless" was unremitting in its persecutions, but Stalin, who has studied to be a priest, recognized that the church could be useful to him.

The orthodox church was revived as an organ of the state and was again developed as an agent of Red Pan-Slavism in the countries where the population is predominantly Slavic.

Meanwhile, the Roman Catholic, Jewish and Moslem religions are being persecuted, not so much for their religious concepts as for their international relationships, which the Stalinists call "cosmopolitanism," that is, an association with non-Communists.

For instance, the arrest of Cardinal Mindszenty in Hungary was a political act, designed not only to break the back of the Roman Catholic Church in Hungary but to crush the relationship to Rome. In each of their countries, the Russians are developing, with great success, a National Catholic Church; that is, a Catholic Church which follows the rites and rituals of Roman Catholicism but has no affiliation with Rome.

These are not Protestant or Schismatic churches; they are branches torn from the tree by the strong arm of the state. Such churches are subordinated to the government.

By outlawing Zionism and rejecting Hebrew as a language, by discouraging the existence of synagogues and yeshivas, Judaism is being strangled in Communist countries. Judaism does not lend itself to a controllable national church. It is a religion of the individual, communally associated but not dominated. The Jews have no religious hierarchy. The rabbi is a teacher, not a priest. Anyone can perform religious services, and some of the most emotionally satisfying are in the home rather than in the synagogue, as for instance, the Passover service.

Therefore the Jawish synagogue is of no value as an instrument of power and is persecuted. Even Ana Pauker, of Rumania, herself a Jewess, whose father is reported to be in Israel, is a persecutor of the Jews.

Now that the Russian empire is moving into Tibet (and will probably be in control when this is printed), the manipulation of Buddhism in its Lamaistic form becomes increasingly important to Stalin. The spiritual headship of Lamaism is vested in the Dalai Lama, the reincarnation of a Bodhisat; the Panchen Lama has for centuries been a competitor for authority. The Panchen Tashi Lama is also a reincarnation of a Bodhisat.

(A Bodhisat is a holy and wise man who has not yet completed the enlightenment of Buddahood, but is on his way toward that goal of perfection.)

It is a long story to describe the differences between the Dalai Lama, whose court is in the great monastery at Lhasa, and the Panchen Lama, whose monastery is at Tashi Lunpo. Suffice it to say here that both are revered by millions of Tibetans, Mongols and Chinese. Their moral influence extends not over all Buddhists, but over those who accept its Lamaistic form.

In recent years, the Dalai Lama looked toward India for friendship and support, while the Panchen Lama tended to be closer to China. I actually met and conversed with the predecessor of the present Panchen Lama when he was in Shanghai. He was there seeking an alliance against the Dalai Lama and the Indian government.

It is the Panchen Lama who is now associating himself with the Soviet system. This gives to Russian imperialism the leverage of another church, one that is widely influential in Mongolia and China and even among some of the tribesmen lying on the borders of India and China.

The political advantage of this relationship is obviously significant in lands where resistance to the dialectical materialism of Marxism can be overcome by control of those who are devoted to the doctrine of Karma. The Panchen Lama thus becomes a tool of empire.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

TELLING THE AGE FROM THE TEETH

It is now well-known that infected teeth cause many ailments in the joints, kidneys, skin, and other parts of the body. A few weeks ago we reported the work of Dr. Edward S. Stafne in the Journal of the American Dental Association, who stated that diseases of other organs can in turn so affect the structure and appearance of the teeth that general ailments can be located or diagnosed. This means that dentists are now called on not only to treat diseases of the mouth itself but also to aid in the diagnosis of various diseases throughout the body.

It is known that a horse's age can be estimated from its teeth. Now it is reported in the Journal of the American Dental Association that Dr. Costa Gustafson of the State Dental Department of Malmo, Sweden, has worked out a mathematical formula to detect the age of a person within three or four years, by his teeth.

Pointing out that determination of age plays a large role in legal medicine, in crime and in accidents, Dr. Gustafson noted that where violence has produced extensive changes in an individual, the teeth often are the only means of identification. He cited cases in which teeth are the sole clues found to identify a victim or criminal, "particularly in connection with fights in which teeth have been knocked out."

Dr. Gustafson's formula to show the age of the individual is based on a number of measurements of many changes in the teeth connected with age, with allowance made for error, as contrasted with previous methods that have taken into account only single changes. These changes are based on (a) the wearing down of tooth surfaces as the result of chewing, (b) changes in the gum structure, (c) changes—increase or decrease—of the tissues (dentin and enamel) around a tooth in cases of decay or diseases of the tooth, (d) changes in bony tissue at the root of the tooth and resorption of degree of destruction of the structures surrounding the pulp (nerves and blood vessels), (e) transparency of the root, which increases with age.

The estimation of the age of an individual from a tooth or teeth can be very important for identification purposes.

"Cheap at the Price, Uncle, and Thanks!"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — The final decision as to how far the Russo-Chinese alliance will go toward all-out world war will depend on one factor—how many atomic bombs we have, compared with the number Russia has.

The preponderance of atomic weapons in our favor continues to be the most reassuring thing in the otherwise unhappy international picture.

For definite information has been obtained that Russia has been able to manufacture only 24 atomic bombs and is making them only at the rate of two per month.

On the other hand, the American atomic stockpile, while a secret, is vastly greater. Furthermore our rate of production is much faster.

This superiority of atomic strength has been the main factor deterring the Soviet from world war up to now, and the chances are it will continue to be a deterrent in the future. It is also why the Russians have adopted the policy of wearing down American resources by wars of attrition in which satellite nations, not the Red Army, do the fighting.

In brief, it is likely that the Kremlin will not risk a major war in which Russian troops must do battle and in which Russian cities are exposed—until there is a better balance between our atomic stockpile and Moscow's.

Guarding the President

Until the recent attempt on his life, President Truman had given little thought to his personal safety. He once told my assistant, Fred Blumenthal, that he had figured out what he would do if an assassin came into the room. Most assassins, he said, would expect the President to get under the desk, but he was planning to reverse things and attack the attacker—just as Andrew Jackson did when attacked in the halls of Congress....When last week's shooting started, Mrs. Truman rushed into the President's bedroom where he was napping, to tell him a secret service man was lying wounded on the street. Actually she mistook assassin Collazo for a plain-clothes man.... One secret service man was in front of Blair House at the time of the shooting, the others were in the rear eating. The White House police, which bore the brunt of the attack, are under the secret service....The secret service have been under some criticism in recent years for having become partially political. Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan intervened in the early days of the Truman administration, fired Mike Reilly, who operated under Roosevelt, and gave the impression he wanted to run the service. This would not have been tolerated in the old days of Chief William Moran....Later, during the Senate five-percenter probe, Reilly was hastily rehired and given a $10,000 job in the Interior Department. (He knew too much about how the secret service gave a special pass to Vaughan's friend, John Maragon, and about other political wire-pulling.).... Despite occasional politics, however, the secret service does a good job.

Marines' Birthday

Tomorrow, Nov. 10, happens to be the Marine Corps' 175th birthday. That's a lot of years—and glorious years—to have been fighting for the country. So it might be a good idea for radio stations across the nation to play an occasional reminder of the Marine Corps' stirring hymn in commemoration of a great birthday.

Problem for U.N.

The North Korean-Manchurian area is an ideal one for United Nations cooperation — if Moscow would permit it. Reason is that the Japs, which once controlled both Korea and Manchuria, developed power and industry regardless of international boundaries, just as Grand Coulee and Bonneville dams serve several states, regardless of state boundaries . . . Seven major dams are reported on the Yalu river between Manchuria and North Korea. The Suiho dam, one of the largest in the world, is 328 feet high, 2,788 feet long, has a reservoir 40 miles long and delivers 700,000 kilowatts of power . . . Another dam, Mamposhin, delivers 234,000 kw. The total system, when completed, will produce 2,000,000 kilowatts and will operate industries as far south as Port Arthur at the southernmost tip of Manchuria . . . Two other reservoirs are south of the Yalu river, wholly in North Korean territory, and about 20 miles north of the present U.N. front. It was about the time U.N. troops approached these reservoirs that Chinese troops crossed the border . . . The only possible way these power projects can be operated is under some form of United Nations control, since they are located in and supply power to two countries.

Behind the Iron Curtain

Scientist Escapes — Bruno Pontecorvo, the Italian-born British atom scientist, had the full cooperation of the OGPU in escaping behind the Iron Curtain . . . Pontecorvo drove his car to Copenhagen and left it there while he and his family took the north express to Stockholm. From Stockholm they flew by plane to Helsinki. The Russian freighter Beloostrov had been scheduled to sail at 10:40 a. m. September 5. It waited until 5 p. m. and sailed the minute the Pontecorvo family was on board.

Red Army Chiefs Meet—The American legation reports that a mysterious meeting of eastern European Communist bosses is now going on at the Russian resort town of Cochi in the Crimea. This is Prime Minister Stalin's favorite hideaway and it's believed he may be present. A number of Polish and Rumanian generals are known to be present and American diplomats believe the subject being discussed is how to bring greater coordination between the satellite armies.

Tension in Iran—U. S. Ambassador Grady has cabled from Teheran that the Russian radio across the border in Azerbaijan is warning Iranians to get ready to welcome a Russian army. The broadcasts—which continue round-the-clock—no longer say "if the Russian army enters Iran," but "when the Russian army enters Iran." . . . Meanwhile the Moscow diplomatic set has been buzzing about the way all Soviet bigwigs turned out for a party at the Iranian embassy a week ago.

Soviet Tanks—The U. S. Army in Germany has reported to the Pentagon that Russia's tanks and artillery and even the firepower of her troops far surpass those of the United States. This report, based on detailed examination of Russian weapons, says that the United States has no heavy tank that will compare with the Joseph Stalin III tank mounting a powerful 122-millimeter gun. Even more disturbing, the report says the firepower of the Russian divisions of only 11,000 men is almost equal to the firepower of our much larger divisions of 18,000 men.

Egypt Wants More Roads

Today in Washington

Tuesday's Election Was Protest by Electorate Over Things as They Are in U. S.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 9 — Maybe people just tire of one party and want to try the other—but there is something far more fundamental in an election result in which nearly 40,000,000 persons vote, and that something is the characteristic behavior of the American electorate when it expresses its protest "against" things.

The election showed surprising gains for the Republicans in too many sections of the country for the result to be dismissed as a series of local contests. The protest vote was aimed at the Democratic party, which has had full responsibility for domestic and foreign policy during the last two years.

Unquestionably the fluctuating course of the administration in the Far East was held by many Republican speakers to point the finger of blame at the Democratic party. Unquestionably, too, the administration had to bear the blame for high taxes and a disturbed economy.

The McCarthy charges of communism in the administration were not discussed by themselves very much except in a few spots but the relationship of those charges to the failure of the Democrats to carry on a thorough investigation in Congress instead of a "whitewash" did arouse suspicion and add to the general antagonism toward the party in power.

Individual defeats and victories can be accounted for by failure on the part of some candidates to get started earlier on campaigning or to recognize the strength of their opposition. Thus, Senator Tydings of Maryland, Democrat, antagonized many of his constituents for failing to do a better job on the Senate Armed Services Committee of which he was chairman. At the same time he lost votes because his committee report on the Communist charges was so palpably unsatisfactory to most groups except those whitewashed.

On the whole, while individual cases show local reasons for defeat or victory, the basic fact remains that something aroused the electorate to activity and alertness this time which far surpassed in intensity anything that has been witnessed in many years in an off-year election. If anything, the election campaign resembled more the crusade of 1940, when Wendell Willkie was running—only this time it was the protest vote that took on that aspect. For large segments of the voting population came to feel that survival of the free democratic system was at stake. The labor-union agitators played no small part in alarming the independent voters and causing them to forget party tradition and express a protest.

In many a contest, the rank and file of the labor-union members chose not to listen to the exhortations of officers or campaign workers who tried to influence them to vote in a certain way. They considered other issues—the impact of a vacillating foreign policy, the war, the spending, the high taxes. When a number of issues become all powerful, no one economic interest prevails and outweighs the others.

So far as the administration is concerned, it really didn't expect the defeat. President Truman will be welcomed now into the ranks of those of us who make mistakes now and then in political forecasting and thus prove that no one is infallible in appraising future events in politics. Mr. Truman will not be able any longer to use his 1948 experience in predicting victory for himself to taunt his brethren on the opposite side. For he announced boastfully last week he expected a Democratic landslide.

The effect of the election should be to cause the President to go into a new phase of bipartisan foreign policy operation—wholeheartedly instead of intermittently. The country is worried about the Korean crisis and the boldness of the Chinese Communists and wants the administration to stop indicating that it is afraid of the Reds. It doesn't want bluster but it does want firmness. The elections may reflect that kind of mandate.

Certainly the European press is all wrong in assuming that there is coming a return to isolationism or a cutting off of financial aid to Europe. Careful scrutiny of expenditures there will be—and a little more firmness in insisting that European countries do more to help than they have done to date.

One more thing can be asserted in interpreting the results. The doctors got busy and fought the administration on its socialized medicine program. The farmers got busy and fought the Brannan Plan. The day of the "welfare state" in the sense of the "hand-out state" is coming to an end as a political asset. High taxes and a lack of confidence in the national administration are basic reasons for the Republican gains in both Houses of Congress.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Attorney General Goldstein, of the State of New York, recently announced that he had obtained a court order dissolving the Cancer Welfare Fund, Inc., with sumptuous offices in the Empire State Building. Another order permanently enjoined Joseph L. Brandt, executive director and controller of the fund, from further public solicitation of money on any pretext of charity.

Brandt is a professional snoop with a private detective's license and a pistol permit, notwithstanding the fact that he has a criminal record. His conviction on a charge of second degree larceny in 1930 eventually was washed out by a full pardon issued by Herbert H. Lehman when he was governor. The fund expended only five per cent of its collections for cancer relief.

Brandt claims to have been "director, investigation department" of the non-sectarian anti-Nazi League. This concern operates a private gestapo. It is financed in large part, if not altogether, by Isidore Lipschutz, a rich emigre diamond merchant from Belgium. Lipschutz is also the principal backer of the Society for the Prevention of World War III. The purposes of these two Lipschutz enterprises are generally complementary and in no way conflicting.

However, the society is able to represent truthfully that it does not maintain an espionage system of its own to pry into the affairs of office-holders, candidates, historians, journalists and others who oppose the Morgenthau plan or any of Lipschutz's personal prejudices.

The anti-Nazi League has been mentioned many times in testimony before several committees of Congress, usually in the role of a sinister, under-handed, intimidating concern. It exercised strong, stealthy influence in the Office of War Information during the war, harrying persons whom it considered to be "Fascists" but ignoring Communists.

Th cancer racket inquiry was set in motion by Nick Kenny, the noted poet, composer and columnist of the New York Mirror. An agent of the Cancer Welfare Fund asked him for some publicity and Nick asked the Better Business Bureau of New York for a report.

Brandt took a long time to answer the bureau. When he did answer, the roster of the Cancer Welfare Fund named one Richard Rollins, of the Gum Products Co., East Boston, Mass., as vice-president.

Rollins, formerly known as "Colonel" Richard Rollins and before that as Irving Rothberg, also was for a time "chief investigator" of Lipschutz's Anti-Nazi League. He adopted the name of Rollins as a disguise when he was playing the role of junior G-man for Sam Dickstein, now a judge of the New York Supreme Court but then the first active boss of the House committee of Un-American Activities.

John McCormick of Boston, the House majority leader, was the actual chairman but he turned the committee over to Dickstein so that Sam could make propaganda chasing Nazis, who then were at the height of their arrogant impudence.

Rollins wrote that the Nazis were the real menace. The Communists were harmless. Like the notorious liar, John Roy Carlson, Rollins had an active imagination crowded with perils that are invisible to investigators who plod along collecting information by simple inquiries.

For example, for more than a week I have been trying to interview Rollins. I probably will get him yet but at no time have I planted a "bug" against the wall of his bedroom, tapped his phone, stolen from his files or sneaked wax recordings of private conversations, as he boasted that he did.

In his book called, "I Find Treason," published in 1941, Rollins gave a revealing picture of the character of the league which is so closely related to the Society for the Prevention of World War 3.

EXCESS PROFITS TAX LAW

It's generally accepted that when Congress returns it will lay the groundwork for more new taxes. All signs point to an excess profits tax, which the majority of lawmakers appear to regard as politically necessary in a time of trial.

Some words of warning against that kind of tax were uttered the other day, but they probably came too late to make much of an impact. They came from Beardsley Ruml, New York corporation tax expert, and from Dr. Harley Lutz, who prepared a tax study for the National Association of Manufacturers.

In a good many quarters, of course, any spokesman with the NAM stamp is automatically a "black reactionary" not worth listening to. And Ruml probably doesn't enjoy much better standing in such circles.

Fair-minded Americans, however, consider arguments from every source, and try to measure them on their merits.

In this instance, both Lutz and Ruml have concluded that the excess profits tax is unworkable and inequitable. They base their conviction not upon theory but upon the country's past experience with the levy. The recent period of World War II provides perhaps the fullest test.

The chief problem with the tax is how to siphon off earnings definitely attributable to war or defense production without hurting growing businesses. Many firms, not directly benefitted by military orders, may nevertheless enjoy higher profits in a crisis period because of the natural development of their business. An excess profits tax almost certainly will penalize that growth.

Because it is so difficult to write a fair law, all sorts of loopholes are permitted to accommodate hardship cases. If the proponents of the tax think this is a piddling problem, it might be well to remind them that 22,000 individual hardship cases born of World War II days are still unsettled.

Moreover, Ruml and Lutz are convinced such a levy promotes waste and extravagance in business, since many businessmen will choose to spend extra sums on advertising, unwise plant expansion and even useless frills rather than report higher earnings. The result, they say, is a boost for inflation.

One may rightly question the concern for the public interest of men who respond to the tax this way. But there's no way to stop them. And since one goal of higher taxes is to prevent inflation, an excess profits levy seems something less than perfect for the job.

Lutz, and presumably Ruml, too, are not arguing against increasing taxes. In his study Lutz suggests that a better job will be done merely by hiking regular corporate income taxes. He says this will produce a sure revenue, help curb inflation and avoid the unequal effects of the excess profits measure.

Congress may be in no mood to consider this alternative. But at the very least it should compel the advocates of the excess profits tax to show how it can be applied fairly and effectively. Judging from the record, that's a pretty heavy burden of proof to carry.

Americans' votes each election time reflect the might of the individual. History has recorded several instances when but a lone vote has carried the balloting in one direction or another. In large numbers they may overwhelm a candidate, but even singly they may be decisive. The moral is obvious.

The market basket may bring home meat, butter, eggs, beans, spinach and potatoes, but never, in the youngster's opinion, anything to eat.

Out in Bellingham, Washington, a penny-counting machine was discovered to be delivering 50-cent rolls containing 55 pennies. Nothing like that ever happens to us.

Doubtless it is the official hope that the shipment of American food to Yugoslavia, to help relieve the effects of a drouth, will bolster Tito's government and be a further indication to him and the Yugoslavs that the American hand of friendship is extended to opponents of the Russian satellite system. It also can be hoped that Yugoslavs will be able to detect a note of humanitarianism; we are doing for them only what we have done for many others in similar plights.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

RELIGION AS A MILITARY ARM

Czarist Russia used the orthodox church as an arm of government. It was a national church, at the head of which stood the Czar. The church itself was not directed by its ecclesiastical authority but by a civilian official, the procurator of the holy synod. This developed into a vast propagandistic arm of the Russian government for the spread of Pan-Slavism, the concept that the Slavic races have a special destiny and will ultimately rule the world.

Bolsheviks and other revolutionary groups hated the orthodox church as they hate all religions of God, whatever their concept of the supernatural. In Lenin's time, the "Society of the Godless" was unremitting in its persecutions, but Stalin, who has studied to be a priest, recognized that the church could be useful to him.

The orthodox church was revived as an organ of the state and was again developed as an agent of Red Pan-Slavism in the countries where the population is predominantly Slavic.

Meanwhile, the Roman Catholic, Jewish and Moslem religions are being persecuted, not so much for their religious concepts as for their international relationships, which the Stalinists call "cosmopolitanism," that is, an association with non-Communists.

For instance, the arrest of Cardinal Mindszenty in Hungary was a political act, designed not only to break the back of the Roman Catholic Church in Hungary but to crush the relationship to Rome. In each of their countries, the Russians are developing, with great success, a National Catholic Church; that is, a Catholic Church which follows the rites and rituals of Roman Catholicism but has no affiliation with Rome.

These are not Protestant or Schismatic churches; they are branches torn from the tree by the strong arm of the state. Such churches are subordinated to the government.

By outlawing Zionism and rejecting Hebrew as a language, by discouraging the existence of synagogues and yeshivas, Judaism is being strangled in Communist countries. Judaism does not lend itself to a controllable national church. It is a religion of the individual, communally associated but not dominated. The Jews have no religious hierarchy. The rabbi is a teacher, not a priest. Anyone can perform religious services, and some of the most emotionally satisfying are in the home rather than in the synagogue, as for instance, the Passover service.

Therefore the Jawish synagogue is of no value as an instrument of power and is persecuted. Even Ana Pauker, of Rumania, herself a Jewess, whose father is reported to be in Israel, is a persecutor of the Jews.

Now that the Russian empire is moving into Tibet (and will probably be in control when this is printed), the manipulation of Buddhism in its Lamaistic form becomes increasingly important to Stalin. The spiritual headship of Lamaism is vested in the Dalai Lama, the reincarnation of a Bodhisat; the Panchen Lama has for centuries been a competitor for authority. The Panchen Tashi Lama is also a reincarnation of a Bodhisat.

(A Bodhisat is a holy and wise man who has not yet completed the enlightenment of Buddahood, but is on his way toward that goal of perfection.)

It is a long story to describe the differences between the Dalai Lama, whose court is in the great monastery at Lhasa, and the Panchen Lama, whose monastery is at Tashi Lunpo. Suffice it to say here that both are revered by millions of Tibetans, Mongols and Chinese. Their moral influence extends not over all Buddhists, but over those who accept its Lamaistic form.

In recent years, the Dalai Lama looked toward India for friendship and support, while the Panchen Lama tended to be closer to China. I actually met and conversed with the predecessor of the present Panchen Lama when he was in Shanghai. He was there seeking an alliance against the Dalai Lama and the Indian government.

It is the Panchen Lama who is now associating himself with the Soviet system. This gives to Russian imperialism the leverage of another church, one that is widely influential in Mongolia and China and even among some of the tribesmen lying on the borders of India and China.

The political advantage of this relationship is obviously significant in lands where resistance to the dialectical materialism of Marxism can be overcome by control of those who are devoted to the doctrine of Karma. The Panchen Lama thus becomes a tool of empire.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

TELLING THE AGE FROM THE TEETH

It is now well-known that infected teeth cause many ailments in the joints, kidneys, skin, and other parts of the body. A few weeks ago we reported the work of Dr. Edward S. Stafne in the Journal of the American Dental Association, who stated that diseases of other organs can in turn so affect the structure and appearance of the teeth that general ailments can be located or diagnosed. This means that dentists are now called on not only to treat diseases of the mouth itself but also to aid in the diagnosis of various diseases throughout the body.

It is known that a horse's age can be estimated from its teeth. Now it is reported in the Journal of the American Dental Association that Dr. Costa Gustafson of the State Dental Department of Malmo, Sweden, has worked out a mathematical formula to detect the age of a person within three or four years, by his teeth.

Pointing out that determination of age plays a large role in legal medicine, in crime and in accidents, Dr. Gustafson noted that where violence has produced extensive changes in an individual, the teeth often are the only means of identification. He cited cases in which teeth are the sole clues found to identify a victim or criminal, "particularly in connection with fights in which teeth have been knocked out."

Dr. Gustafson's formula to show the age of the individual is based on a number of measurements of many changes in the teeth connected with age, with allowance made for error, as contrasted with previous methods that have taken into account only single changes. These changes are based on (a) the wearing down of tooth surfaces as the result of chewing, (b) changes in the gum structure, (c) changes—increase or decrease—of the tissues (dentin and enamel) around a tooth in cases of decay or diseases of the tooth, (d) changes in bony tissue at the root of the tooth and resorption of degree of destruction of the structures surrounding the pulp (nerves and blood vessels), (e) transparency of the root, which increases with age.

The estimation of the age of an individual from a tooth or teeth can be very important for identification purposes.

"Cheap at the Price, Uncle, and Thanks!"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — The final decision as to how far the Russo-Chinese alliance will go toward all-out world war will depend on one factor—how many atomic bombs we have, compared with the number Russia has.

The preponderance of atomic weapons in our favor continues to be the most reassuring thing in the otherwise unhappy international picture.

For definite information has been obtained that Russia has been able to manufacture only 24 atomic bombs and is making them only at the rate of two per month.

On the other hand, the American atomic stockpile, while a secret, is vastly greater. Furthermore our rate of production is much faster.

This superiority of atomic strength has been the main factor deterring the Soviet from world war up to now, and the chances are it will continue to be a deterrent in the future. It is also why the Russians have adopted the policy of wearing down American resources by wars of attrition in which satellite nations, not the Red Army, do the fighting.

In brief, it is likely that the Kremlin will not risk a major war in which Russian troops must do battle and in which Russian cities are exposed—until there is a better balance between our atomic stockpile and Moscow's.

Guarding the President

Until the recent attempt on his life, President Truman had given little thought to his personal safety. He once told my assistant, Fred Blumenthal, that he had figured out what he would do if an assassin came into the room. Most assassins, he said, would expect the President to get under the desk, but he was planning to reverse things and attack the attacker—just as Andrew Jackson did when attacked in the halls of Congress....When last week's shooting started, Mrs. Truman rushed into the President's bedroom where he was napping, to tell him a secret service man was lying wounded on the street. Actually she mistook assassin Collazo for a plain-clothes man.... One secret service man was in front of Blair House at the time of the shooting, the others were in the rear eating. The White House police, which bore the brunt of the attack, are under the secret service....The secret service have been under some criticism in recent years for having become partially political. Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan intervened in the early days of the Truman administration, fired Mike Reilly, who operated under Roosevelt, and gave the impression he wanted to run the service. This would not have been tolerated in the old days of Chief William Moran....Later, during the Senate five-percenter probe, Reilly was hastily rehired and given a $10,000 job in the Interior Department. (He knew too much about how the secret service gave a special pass to Vaughan's friend, John Maragon, and about other political wire-pulling.).... Despite occasional politics, however, the secret service does a good job.

Marines' Birthday

Tomorrow, Nov. 10, happens to be the Marine Corps' 175th birthday. That's a lot of years—and glorious years—to have been fighting for the country. So it might be a good idea for radio stations across the nation to play an occasional reminder of the Marine Corps' stirring hymn in commemoration of a great birthday.

Problem for U.N.

The North Korean-Manchurian area is an ideal one for United Nations cooperation — if Moscow would permit it. Reason is that the Japs, which once controlled both Korea and Manchuria, developed power and industry regardless of international boundaries, just as Grand Coulee and Bonneville dams serve several states, regardless of state boundaries . . . Seven major dams are reported on the Yalu river between Manchuria and North Korea. The Suiho dam, one of the largest in the world, is 328 feet high, 2,788 feet long, has a reservoir 40 miles long and delivers 700,000 kilowatts of power . . . Another dam, Mamposhin, delivers 234,000 kw. The total system, when completed, will produce 2,000,000 kilowatts and will operate industries as far south as Port Arthur at the southernmost tip of Manchuria . . . Two other reservoirs are south of the Yalu river, wholly in North Korean territory, and about 20 miles north of the present U.N. front. It was about the time U.N. troops approached these reservoirs that Chinese troops crossed the border . . . The only possible way these power projects can be operated is under some form of United Nations control, since they are located in and supply power to two countries.

Behind the Iron Curtain

Scientist Escapes — Bruno Pontecorvo, the Italian-born British atom scientist, had the full cooperation of the OGPU in escaping behind the Iron Curtain . . . Pontecorvo drove his car to Copenhagen and left it there while he and his family took the north express to Stockholm. From Stockholm they flew by plane to Helsinki. The Russian freighter Beloostrov had been scheduled to sail at 10:40 a. m. September 5. It waited until 5 p. m. and sailed the minute the Pontecorvo family was on board.

Red Army Chiefs Meet—The American legation reports that a mysterious meeting of eastern European Communist bosses is now going on at the Russian resort town of Cochi in the Crimea. This is Prime Minister Stalin's favorite hideaway and it's believed he may be present. A number of Polish and Rumanian generals are known to be present and American diplomats believe the subject being discussed is how to bring greater coordination between the satellite armies.

Tension in Iran—U. S. Ambassador Grady has cabled from Teheran that the Russian radio across the border in Azerbaijan is warning Iranians to get ready to welcome a Russian army. The broadcasts—which continue round-the-clock—no longer say "if the Russian army enters Iran," but "when the Russian army enters Iran." . . . Meanwhile the Moscow diplomatic set has been buzzing about the way all Soviet bigwigs turned out for a party at the Iranian embassy a week ago.

Soviet Tanks—The U. S. Army in Germany has reported to the Pentagon that Russia's tanks and artillery and even the firepower of her troops far surpass those of the United States. This report, based on detailed examination of Russian weapons, says that the United States has no heavy tank that will compare with the Joseph Stalin III tank mounting a powerful 122-millimeter gun. Even more disturbing, the report says the firepower of the Russian divisions of only 11,000 men is almost equal to the firepower of our much larger divisions of 18,000 men.

Today in Washington

Tuesday's Election Was Protest by Electorate Over Things as They Are in U. S.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 9 — Maybe people just tire of one party and want to try the other—but there is something far more fundamental in an election result in which nearly 40,000,000 persons vote, and that something is the characteristic behavior of the American electorate when it expresses its protest "against" things.

The election showed surprising gains for the Republicans in too many sections of the country for the result to be dismissed as a series of local contests. The protest vote was aimed at the Democratic party, which has had full responsibility for domestic and foreign policy during the last two years.

Unquestionably the fluctuating course of the administration in the Far East was held by many Republican speakers to point the finger of blame at the Democratic party. Unquestionably, too, the administration had to bear the blame for high taxes and a disturbed economy.

The McCarthy charges of communism in the administration were not discussed by themselves very much except in a few spots but the relationship of those charges to the failure of the Democrats to carry on a thorough investigation in Congress instead of a "whitewash" did arouse suspicion and add to the general antagonism toward the party in power.

Individual defeats and victories can be accounted for by failure on the part of some candidates to get started earlier on campaigning or to recognize the strength of their opposition. Thus, Senator Tydings of Maryland, Democrat, antagonized many of his constituents for failing to do a better job on the Senate Armed Services Committee of which he was chairman. At the same time he lost votes because his committee report on the Communist charges was so palpably unsatisfactory to most groups except those whitewashed.

On the whole, while individual cases show local reasons for defeat or victory, the basic fact remains that something aroused the electorate to activity and alertness this time which far surpassed in intensity anything that has been witnessed in many years in an off-year election. If anything, the election campaign resembled more the crusade of 1940, when Wendell Willkie was running—only this time it was the protest vote that took on that aspect. For large segments of the voting population came to feel that survival of the free democratic system was at stake. The labor-union agitators played no small part in alarming the independent voters and causing them to forget party tradition and express a protest.

In many a contest, the rank and file of the labor-union members chose not to listen to the exhortations of officers or campaign workers who tried to influence them to vote in a certain way. They considered other issues—the impact of a vacillating foreign policy, the war, the spending, the high taxes. When a number of issues become all powerful, no one economic interest prevails and outweighs the others.

So far as the administration is concerned, it really didn't expect the defeat. President Truman will be welcomed now into the ranks of those of us who make mistakes now and then in political forecasting and thus prove that no one is infallible in appraising future events in politics. Mr. Truman will not be able any longer to use his 1948 experience in predicting victory for himself to taunt his brethren on the opposite side. For he announced boastfully last week he expected a Democratic landslide.

The effect of the election should be to cause the President to go into a new phase of bipartisan foreign policy operation—wholeheartedly instead of intermittently. The country is worried about the Korean crisis and the boldness of the Chinese Communists—and wants the administration to stop indicating that it is afraid of the Reds. It doesn't want bluster but it does want firmness. The elections may reflect that kind of mandate.

Certainly the European press is all wrong in assuming that there is coming a return to isolationism or a cutting off of financial aid to Europe. Careful scrutiny of expenditures there will be—and a little more firmness in insisting that European countries do more to help than they have done to date.

One more thing can be asserted in interpreting the results. The doctors got busy and fought the administration on its socialized medicine program. The farmers got busy and fought the Brannan Plan. The day of the "welfare state" in the sense of the "hand-out state" is coming to an end as a political asset. High taxes and a lack of confidence in the national administration are basic reasons for the Republican gains in both Houses of Congress.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Attorney General Goldstein, of the State of New York, recently announced that he had obtained a court order dissolving the Cancer Welfare Fund, Inc., with sumptuous offices in the Empire State Building. Another order permanently enjoined Joseph L. Brandt, executive director and controller of the fund, from further public solicitation of money on any pretext of charity.

Brandt is a professional snoop with a private detective's license and a pistol permit, notwithstanding the fact that he has a criminal record. His conviction on a charge of second degree larceny in 1930 eventually was washed out by a full pardon issued by Herbert H. Lehman when he was governor. The fund expended only five per cent of its collections for cancer relief.

Brandt claims to have been "director, investigation department" of the non-sectarian anti-Nazi League. This concern operates a private gestapo. Local Legion Men Hear National Commander Speak

Five Ulster county Legionnaires were present at a dinner and rally in Albany this week in honor of Erle Cook, Jr., national commander of the American Legion.

Those present from this county were Everett Coty, county commander; Stanley Lawrence, adjutant; Earl Haley; Andrew J. Murphy, Jr.; and Andrew J. Murphy, III.

About 100 members attended the dinner at the DeWitt Clinton Hotel, after which the national commander addressed 700 Legionnaires and auxiliary members at Chancellor's Hall.

Earlier in the day, Cooke was guest of honor at a luncheon at American Legion Post No. 41, Syracuse, at which Thomas Bohan of Kingston, state vice-commander, was present.

In his address Monday night, Cooke predicted that a system of Universal Military Training will be made law at the next session of Congress. "The core of any intelligent defense system for a nation living in the constant threat of war is a system of Universal Training," he said.

University Criticized

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 9 (AP)—The head of the WCTU criticized Columbia University today for "behind the scenes corporation" with a brewery on a television program. Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, called the program "a scheme of education for alcoholism which uses American classics as springboards for beer promotion." The program is the Pulitzer Prize Playhouse, sponsored by the Joseph Schlitz Brewing Co., Milwaukee, over the AB-TV network. It features famous plays, mostly Pulitzer Prize winners.

Scottish Monster Just War Mines

London, Nov. 9 (AP) — Grizzled torpedo and mining experts of a Royal navy school at Plymouth declared today the controversial monster of Loch Ness is actually 40 monsters—all man-made.

Each monster, they said, consists of a string of dummy mines from World War 1. They said 320 mines, joined together eight to a string, were moored to the bottom of the renowned Scottish lake by the minelayer Welbeck as an experiment in 1918 and the strings have been popping up one at a time ever since.

This debunking pained the tourist-loving innkeepers of Inverness, where the loch drains into the North Sea.

"Utter nonsense," snorted J. C. Mackay, staff veteran of the Inverness Courier. "There's a living, breathing monster in that lake. In all, more than 1,000 persons have reported sighting it."

Wary of Scottish wrath, the Royal navy experts declined to give their names, but told newsmen:

Each of the dummy mines had four horns to contain its detonators. The horns were made of a material that would crumble when exposed to the air. As the years passed, the strings tore loose one by one from their moorings. When they reached the surface, the horns crumbled and the mines slowly filled with water. Then they rolled over and sank.

"There may be a half dozen strings still left on the bottom," one of the experts said. "At a distance, they make a very fine monster. It has been a good laugh for the few of us in the know."

Reopen Copper Mines

Brazzaville, French Equitorial Africa (AP) — An agreement has been concluded for the exploitation of French Equitorial Africa's copper deposits located on the railway about 180 miles inland from Pointe-Noire harbor. The deposits were mined previously between 1905 and 1930 but the world crisis in 1930-32 compelled the exploiting company to close the workings.

Personal
To Women With Nagging Backache

As we get older, stress and strain, overexertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

This Is How He Did It

Marysvale, Utah, Nov. 9 (AP)—Pierre Perry, a former French boxer, came to Utah to hunt uranium. He switched his Geiger counter for a rifle yesterday in an attempt to bag a deer. No luck. So he switched his rifle for a sling shot to bring down a chicken hawk. That's when a 165-pound buck appeared. Pierre said he flipped a ball bearing into the sling shot and let fly. He said the pellet caught the deer just below the temple and he then finished off the animal with his knife. He was hunting at the time with Fred C. Clermore, also of Marysvale. They both swore to the feat.

Your normal tendency is to win a trick as cheaply as possible. A good thing, too, because if you squandered cards when winning tricks, you would lose most doubtful contracts. Nevertheless, it is sometimes necessary to win a trick as expensively as possible to keep from getting in your own way later on. Today's hand is a case in point.

If West had opened a spade, South's hash would have been settled very quickly. There would have been no play to avoid the loss of two spades, a diamond, and a club. However, there was no way for West to know that the spade lead would be so much better than the club.

East also had a chance to save the defense after he won the first trick with the ace of clubs. However, a spade return looked very dangerous to him. Moreover, there was the chance that his partner had opened a singleton club. He therefore returned a club at the second trick.

Dummy won the second trick with the queen of clubs and returned a low heart. When East showed out, South won with the king and considered matters afresh. He had hoped to draw trumps in three rounds, discard a spade from dummy on the king of clubs and then give up a diamond and a spade. This plan could not be followed, since all of dummy's trumps would have to be used up to draw those held by West.

South therefore led the king of clubs at once, hoping that West could follow suit once more. Unfortunately for declarer, West ruffed—and here was where South had to be extravagant rather than economical. He had to ruff with dummy's ace of trump!

That left two low trumps in dummy. He could lead back one of those low trumps to his own hand in order to lead a diamond. West played low, and dummy won with the queen of diamonds. Then dummy's remaining low trump could be led back to South's own hand and the last diamond could be returned towards dummy.

Now West could not defeat the contract. If he ducked, South would lose no diamonds and could well afford to give up two spades. If West put up his ace of diamonds, dummy's king would be good later on and would afford South a spade discard.

If dummy had ruffed with a low trump at the fourth trick (instead of with the ace), there would have been only one low trump in dummy. South could reach his hand for one diamond lead, but then would be stuck in dummy. It would do him no good to lead diamonds from the dummy, and he would wind up losing two spades, a diamond, and a club.

Scottish Monster Just War Mines

London, Nov. 9 (AP) — Grizzled torpedo and mining experts of a Royal navy school at Plymouth declared today the controversial monster of Loch Ness is actually 40 monsters—all man-made.

Each monster, they said, consists of a string of dummy mines from World War 1. They said 320 mines, joined together eight to a string, were moored to the bottom of the renowned Scottish lake by the minelayer Welbeck as an experiment in 1918 and the strings have been popping up one at a time ever since.

This debunking pained the tourist-loving innkeepers of Inverness, where the loch drains into the North Sea.

"Utter nonsense," snorted J. C. Mackay, staff veteran of the Inverness Courier. "There's a living, breathing monster in that lake. In all, more than 1,000 persons have reported sighting it."

Wary of Scottish wrath, the Royal navy experts declined to give their names, but told newsmen:

Each of the dummy mines had four horns to contain its detonators. The horns were made of a material that would crumble when exposed to the air. As the years passed, the strings tore loose one by one from their moorings. When they reached the surface, the horns crumbled and the mines slowly filled with water. Then they rolled over and sank.

"There may be a half dozen strings still left on the bottom," one of the experts said. "At a distance, they make a very fine monster. It has been a good laugh for the few of us in the know."

Personal
To Women With Nagging Backache

As we get older, stress and strain, overexertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Reopen Copper Mines

Brazzaville, French Equitorial Africa (AP) — An agreement has been concluded for the exploitation of French Equitorial Africa's copper deposits located on the railway about 180 miles inland from Pointe-Noire harbor. The deposits were mined previously between 1905 and 1930 but the world crisis in 1930-32 compelled the exploiting company to close the workings.

In all races of mankind, more girls than boys are born.

Your normal tendency is to win a trick as cheaply as possible. A good thing, too, because if you squandered cards when winning tricks, you would lose most doubtful contracts. Nevertheless, it is sometimes necessary to win a trick as expensively as possible to keep from getting in your own way later on. Today's hand is a case in point.

If West had opened a spade, South's hash would have been settled very quickly. There would have been no play to avoid the loss of two spades, a diamond, and a club. However, there was no way for West to know that the spade lead would be so much better than the club.

East also had a chance to save the defense after he won the first trick with the ace of clubs. However, a spade return looked very dangerous to him. Moreover, there was the chance that his partner had opened a singleton club. He therefore returned a club at the second trick.

Dummy won the second trick with the queen of clubs and returned a low heart. When East showed out, South won with the king and considered matters afresh. He had hoped to draw trumps in three rounds, discard a spade from dummy on the king of clubs and then give up a diamond and a spade. This plan could not be followed, since all of dummy's trumps would have to be used up to draw those held by West.

South therefore led the king of clubs at once, hoping that West could follow suit once more. Unfortunately for declarer, West ruffed—and here was where South had to be extravagant rather than economical. He had to ruff with dummy's ace of trump!

That left two low trumps in dummy. He could lead back one of those low trumps to his own hand in order to lead a diamond. West played low, and dummy won with the queen of diamonds. Then dummy's remaining low trump could be led back to South's own hand and the last diamond could be returned towards dummy.

Now West could not defeat the contract. If he ducked, South would lose no diamonds and could well afford to give up two spades. If West put up his ace of diamonds, dummy's king would be good later on and would afford South a spade discard.

If dummy had ruffed with a low trump at the fourth trick (instead of with the ace), there would have been only one low trump in dummy. South could reach his hand for one diamond lead, but then would be stuck in dummy. It would do him no good to lead diamonds from the dummy, and he would wind up losing two spades, a diamond, and a club.

This Is How He Did It

Marysvale, Utah, Nov. 9 (AP)—Pierre Perry, a former French boxer, came to Utah to hunt uranium. He switched his Geiger counter for a rifle yesterday in an attempt to bag a deer. No luck. So he switched his rifle for a sling shot to bring down a chicken hawk. That's when a 165-pound buck appeared. Pierre said he flipped a ball bearing into the sling shot and let fly. He said the pellet caught the deer just below the temple and he then finished off the animal with his knife. He was hunting at the time with Fred C. Clermore, also of Marysvale. They both swore to the feat.

"As ye sow, so shall ye reap"—
And hoarders are planting the seed
Of the very things we are fighting
Called selfishness and greed!
Is there any reason why our sons
Should die in a foreign war,
When some folks at home betray the cause
That they are fighting for?

Voice of America

"As ye sow, so shall ye reap"—
And hoarders are planting the seed
Of the very things we are fighting
Called selfishness and greed!
Is there any reason why our sons
Should die in a foreign war,
When some folks at home betray the cause
That they are fighting for?
—Carmen Carter

At thirty miles per hour it takes a car 80 feet to stop, say highway officials. That means that if your headlight beam doesn't show things up at least 80 feet away, you shouldn't drive thirty miles an hour. Sundown is time to slow down on the street and highway.

Bob—So you are going to propose to Mabel?

Sam—You bet! Wish me luck.

Bob—Oh, I wish you luck, all right, old man, but it won't do you a bit of good. I know she is going to accept you.

Happiness sneaks in through a door you didn't know you left open.

Minister — Young man, you must conquer yourself. Why, I conquered myself when I was about your age.

Young Man—Well, I'm a harder man to lick than you are.

Traveling Man—Uncle Remus, can you change a ten-dollar bill?

Uncle Remus—No, suh; but Ah suttinly thanks yo' fo' de compliment.

Girl Dude (to Cowgirl)—If you come to the city you'll get invited up to see some etchings.

Motorists Warned To Prepare for Winter Driving

Albany, Nov. 9—Earlier hours of darkness and dropping temperatures should serve as fair warnings of rough weather ahead, motor vehicle owners and operators were advised today by Motor Vehicle Commissioner Clifford J. Fletcher.

"From the lessons of past winter seasons, wise motorists know it pays to change driving habits and to have their vehicles put in shape to drive safely in any kind of winter weather," Mr. Fletcher said.

He particularly urged car and truck owners to equalize brakes, check headlights and taillights, renew windshield wiper blades that smear, examine exhaust systems and inspect tires and batteries. Any faulty equipment should be repaired or replaced without delay, he advised.

With year-'round equipment in good order, attention should be given to the special equipment needed for winter driving. Tire chains should be ready for quick use whenever severe snow and ice conditions develop. Defrosting equipment should be in condition to keep the outside of the windshield free of snow and ice, and the inside free of frost and moisture. The heater should be checked for efficiency, and to be sure there are no leaks, to insure comfort in sub-zero weather and to make sure the defroster will really work.

"Accident tabulations of the National Safety Council show that the winter auto death rate rises 24 to 53 per cent over the summer rate in the 36 states having ice and snow," Mr. Fletcher said. "Let's all drive carefully this winter. The extra precautions we take in driving will mean lives saved, and those lives can include our own."

Hanley Quits Hospital at Hudson

Hudson, N. Y., Nov. 9 (AP)—Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley left Columbia Memorial Hospital today and said he felt "good" after a rest of nine days.

Hanley, 74, was defeated Tuesday by Senator Herbert H. Lehman in his bid as the Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate.

"I feel good. I'll be back at the office Monday," Hanley said as he left the hospital to motor to his farm at Nassau, near Albany.

He entered the hospital Nov. 1 to recuperate from what his doctor described as "complete exhaustion" from weeks of strenuous campaigning.

Cream Cheese Sandwiches

Youngsters usually enjoy sandwiches filled with cream cheese mixed with raisins. Add about a tablespoon of milk to a three-ounce package of the cheese so it will spread well.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 9 (AP)—A midmorning buying flurry shoved stock prices upward today.

Gains ranged to around $2 a share and were liberally distributed among major groups.

Aside from that short-lived pick-up in demand, trading proceeded at a comparatively sluggish pace. Neither buyers or sellers were in any mood to get tough on the matter of price.

Rail, steel, motor and radio-television issues attracted a little more support than other sections.

A few individual stocks responded to dividend news. U. S. Rubber, for instance, gained around $1.50 a share in the wake of an extra of $1.75 a share.

Others marked up included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Radio Corp., Philco, Zenith, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Nickel Plate, Gulf Oil, Johns-Manville, Dow Chemical, Douglas Aircraft, Lockheed, Kennecott Copper, and General Electric.

Selected railway issues did well in the corporate bond market. U. S. Government bonds were either unchanged or a trifle higher in over-the-counter dealings.

Lifted in the curb were Babcock & Wilcox, Cities Service, Creole Petroleum, General Fireproofing, Jefferson Lake Sulphur, United Aircraft Products, and Aluminum Co.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Nov. 9—The Olive first election district Tuesday maintained its reputation as a Republican stronghold, giving a thumping majority to Gov. Dewey who ran ahead of his ticket. The second district, on the west side of the reservoir, also went heavily for the governor who led Rep. Lynch by 113 votes. It was not always thus in Olive, however; in 1916, for instance, Woodrow Wilson led the field by 23, though Charles W. Walton a Republican, received a majority of 33 votes in the town.

Charles "Buddy" Jackson, well-known Ashokan athlete and K.H.S. graduate, is employed at the Western Union office in Poughkeepsie. Buddy lives at the "Y" in the Bridge City and comes home week-ends.

Summer residents coming here to vote included Mr. and Mrs. Pietro Mastrota, Bernard and Camella Casablanca and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Weiderspiel. Those on duty at the local polls were Mary Merrihew, Vera Sickler, Vivia Winnie, Eva Holzer, Eugene McGowan, Frank Carle and Eddie Secor, the last two being war two veterans.

Mrs. Milton Ryan, wife of the Ashokan Church pastor, who was seriously ill earlier in the season is mourning the loss of her father who died Oct. 29, at Oneonta.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Moore spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Roger Banta of Grahamsville.

Mr. and Mrs. John Billias were guests a few days last week of Mr. Billias' daughter in Connecticut.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Gross who were recently married have rented one of the Spiegel apartments.

Among the oldest residents casting their ballots here Tuesday were Margaret Rainey, 91; Alonzo Haver, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Markle, Julia Winchell and Aner Longyear, all of whom are well on in their eighties. Mrs. Winchell observed her 85th birthday last Monday. Mrs. Longyear is a few years younger than Homer who will be 90 in February. The two were next door neighbors as children.

Norman North, war two navy veteran, who is employed in New York by Bernard Casablanca, a plastering contractor, returned to the city Tuesday following a sojourn of several days at the Justus North home. Norman is a K.H.S. graduate and holder of the Eagle Scout decoration.

Late Bulletin

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—The State Department announced today it has ordered passport visas issued to nine Chinese Communists who are coming to the United Nations to discuss the Formosa issue.

The U. S. embassy at Prague, Czechoslovakia, was directed to issue the visas, which are in effect entry permits. Members of the group will be required to remain in the New York area during their stay.

The China Red regime was invited by the U.N. Security Council to send representatives to discuss the Chinese Communist charge that the United States had committed armed invasion of Formosa.

A state department announcement said that in view of the Security Council's invitation the United States was obligated to permit the group to enter.

Communists are barred from entry into the United States but the attorney general used discretionary authority under 1917 and subsequent immigration legislation to permit the Chinese delegation to enter.

Dewey Victory Is

back. Nominated for governor by acclamation, he steamrollered Democrat John J. Bennett and became New York's first Republican chief executive in 20 years.

The Republicans nominated Dewey for president in wartime 1944, but President Roosevelt trounced him.

Came 1946 and Dewey bounced back once more. He won a second term as governor and in doing so he crushed New Dealer James M. Mead by a record majority of 687,000.

That set the stage for another crack at the Republican presidential nomination. He had rugged early opposition from Harold Stassen and Senator Taft. But at the national convention in Philadelphia, Dewey was the first defeated presidential candidate ever renominated by the Republican party.

Consigned to 'Oblivion'

President Truman won, and the experts consigned Dewey to political oblivion.

Dewey subsequently renounced further White House ambitions, and last June 17 he announced he would not seek a third term as governor.

But the Korean war broke out a week later and friends of the governor harped on that in their successful efforts to persuade him to change his mind. They said he was needed at Albany in this time of crisis.

Dewey again was nominated by acclamation and for eight solid weeks he worked for votes as he never had before.

The day before the election he spent 18 hours in a New York city studio, appearing at frequent intervals on television and radio.

The next day he was re-elected over Rep. Walter A. Lynch, "Fair Deal" congressman from the Bronx, by a plurality of 565,000 and became the first Republican ever to win a third term as governor.

Dewey rested today at his farm in Pawling. He's only 48 and back in good health.

Congress May 'Up'

where, tax policy has taken on some bi-partisan aspects.

When Congress adjourned in September, to get ready for the elections, some top Republicans—as well as Democrats—were calling for a "pay-as-you-go" plan to finance the huge rearmament program.

The attitude of top Republicans and Democrats, who survived Tuesday's election, seems to be that rising taxes must accompany the growing costs of building armament against communism.

But attitudes may differ sharply, when they get down to writing the details of new tax legislation.

Congress by overwhelming votes just before it quit in September boosted individual and corporation taxes by $4,700,000,000 a year, bringing the annual tax load to about $42,000,000,000. And an agreemnt for adjournment was blocked until the lawmakers wrote into the tax bill a stipulation that the House Ways and Means and Senate Finance Committees would have a big excess profits tax measure ready when the lawmakers returned.

The House Ways and Means Committee will open public hearings next Wednesday on tax proposals.

United States Will

Nations forces commanded by MacArthur. This action, Austin said, raised the danger "that the present conflict may not be limited to the Korean area."

Subsequently the council, by a vote of 8 to 2, approved a British resolution inviting the Chinese Communists to send representatives here to answer the charges. Affirmative votes were cast by the United States, Britain, Russia, France, Ecuador, India, Yugoslavia, and Norway. Nationalist China and Cuba opposed the resolution and Egypt abstained.

Since the question was one of procedure, Nationalist China's vote did not constitute a veto. The council rejected a Soviet proposal that would have allowed the Chinese Reds to participate in discussions of all angles on the Korean case.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 9 (AP)—A midmorning buying flurry shoved stock prices upward today.

Gains ranged to around $2 a share and were liberally distributed among major groups.

Aside from that short-lived pick-up in demand, trading proceeded at a comparatively sluggish pace. Neither buyers or sellers were in any mood to get tough on the matter of price.

Rail, steel, motor and radio-television issues attracted a little more support than other sections.

A few individual stocks responded to dividend news. U. S. Rubber, for instance, gained around $1.50 a share in the wake of an extra of $1.75 a share.

Others marked up included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Radio Corp., Philco, Zenith, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Nickel Plate, Gulf Oil, Johns-Manville, Dow Chemical, Douglas Aircraft, Lockheed, Kennecott Copper, and General Electric.

Selected railway issues did well in the corporate bond market. U. S. Government bonds were either unchanged or a trifle higher in over-the-counter dealings.

Lifted in the curb were Babcock & Wilcox, Cities Service, Creole Petroleum, General Fireproofing, Jefferson Lake Sulphur, United Aircraft Products, and Aluminum Co.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Nov. 9—The Olive first election district Tuesday maintained its reputation as a Republican stronghold, giving a thumping majority to Gov. Dewey who ran ahead of his ticket. The second district, on the west side of the reservoir, also went heavily for the governor who led Rep. Lynch by 113 votes. It was not always thus in Olive, however; in 1916, for instance, Woodrow Wilson led the field by 23, though Charles W. Walton a Republican, received a majority of 33 votes in the town.

Late Bulletin

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—The State Department announced today it has ordered passport visas issued to nine Chinese Communists who are coming to the United Nations to discuss the Formosa issue.

The U. S. embassy at Prague, Czechoslovakia, was directed to issue the visas, which are in effect entry permits. Members of the group will be required to remain in the New York area during their stay.

The China Red regime was invited by the U.N. Security Council to send representatives to discuss the Chinese Communist charge that the United States had committed armed invasion of Formosa.

A state department announcement said that in view of the Security Council's invitation the United States was obligated to permit the group to enter.

Communists are barred from entry into the United States but the attorney general used discretionary authority under 1917 and subsequent immigration legislation to permit the Chinese delegation to enter.

Dewey Victory Is

back. Nominated for governor by acclamation, he steamrollered Democrat John J. Bennett and became New York's first Republican chief executive in 20 years.

The Republicans nominated Dewey for president in wartime 1944, but President Roosevelt trounced him.

Came 1946 and Dewey bounced back once more. He won a second term as governor and in doing so he crushed New Dealer James M. Mead by a record majority of 687,000.

That set the stage for another crack at the Republican presidential nomination. He had rugged early opposition from Harold Stassen and Senator Taft. But at the national convention in Philadelphia, Dewey was the first defeated presidential candidate ever renominated by the Republican party.

Consigned to 'Oblivion'

President Truman won, and the experts consigned Dewey to political oblivion.

Dewey subsequently renounced further White House ambitions, and last June 17 he announced he would not seek a third term as governor.

But the Korean war broke out a week later and friends of the governor harped on that in their successful efforts to persuade him to change his mind. They said he was needed at Albany in this time of crisis.

Dewey again was nominated by acclamation and for eight solid weeks he worked for votes as he never had before.

The day before the election he spent 18 hours in a New York city studio, appearing at frequent intervals on television and radio.

The next day he was re-elected over Rep. Walter A. Lynch, "Fair Deal" congressman from the Bronx, by a plurality of 565,000 and became the first Republican ever to win a third term as governor.

Dewey rested today at his farm in Pawling. He's only 48 and back in good health.

Congress May 'Up'

where, tax policy has taken on some bi-partisan aspects.

When Congress adjourned in September, to get ready for the elections, some top Republicans—as well as Democrats—were calling for a "pay-as-you-go" plan to finance the huge rearmament program.

The attitude of top Republicans and Democrats, who survived Tuesday's election, seems to be that rising taxes must accompany the growing costs of building armament against communism.

But attitudes may differ sharply, when they get down to writing the details of new tax legislation.

Congress by overwhelming votes just before it quit in September boosted individual and corporation taxes by $4,700,000,000 a year, bringing the annual tax load to about $42,000,000,000. And an agreemnt for adjournment was blocked until the lawmakers wrote into the tax bill a stipulation that the House Ways and Means and Senate Finance Committees would have a big excess profits tax measure ready when the lawmakers returned.

The House Ways and Means Committee will open public hearings next Wednesday on tax proposals.

United States Will

Nations forces commanded by MacArthur. This action, Austin said, raised the danger "that the present conflict may not be limited to the Korean area."

Subsequently the council, by a vote of 8 to 2, approved a British resolution inviting the Chinese Communists to send representatives here to answer the charges. Affirmative votes were cast by the United States, Britain, Russia, France, Ecuador, India, Yugoslavia, and Norway. Nationalist China and Cuba opposed the resolution and Egypt abstained.

Since the question was one of procedure, Nationalist China's vote did not constitute a veto. The council rejected a Soviet proposal that would have allowed the Chinese Reds to participate in discussions of all angles on the Korean case.

Woodstock Painters In Museum Exhibition

New York, Nov. 8 (Special)—Paintings by nine Woodstock artists have been selected for inclusion in the 1950 Annual Exhibition of Contemporary American Painting opening tomorrow (Nov. 10) at the Whitney Museum of American Art here, the museum announced today.

The artists and the titles of their paintings are: Arnold Blanch, "Rural Structures;" Paul Burlin, "Composition;" Edward Chavez, "Pueblo Patterns;" Eugene Ludins, "Intruders;" Howard Mandel, "Ladies in Waiting;" Henry Mattson, "Horizon;" Edward Millman, "Navajo Spinner;" William Pachner, "Imaginary Gathering;" and Bradley Tomlin, "No. 6."

The exhibition, including 153 works by artists in 18 states, will be open to the public until December 31. Containing work in all styles, the show's emphasis is on the prevailing trends of modern art, including cubism, abstractionism, expressionism and surrealism.

The George Washington memorial bridge, over the Hudson River between New York and New Jersey, contains 107,000 miles of wire.

National Education Week

Kingston High School with an enrollment of 1,928 students and employing 75 teachers as well as office assistants, jaintors, cafeteria personnel, a matron and an engineer is the city's largest educational plant. Besides, the high school avails itself of the service of eight special teachers in music, reading and physical education.

A questionnaire conducted among the teachers last week and answered by 56 of the instructors reveals that local high school teachers are adequately trained, do not lack experience and as responsible heads of families, are property owners and taxpayers.

Although training for the job varies from a certificate from a special training school to a doctor of philosophy degree, the average of those answering the questionnaire was 23.7 credits of graduate work. In securing this training, the 56 teachers had spent more than $285,000.

This makes the average cost per teacher approximately $4,880. And a number of the teachers pointed out that they were taking work in college during the depression years, when the buying power of the dollar in education as well as in meat, was much greater than today. Further evidence of interest in training is seen in the fact that two-thirds of those answering, hold masters' degrees, equivalent to one full year of graduate work.

The high school faculty also bring to their jobs each day a wealth of practical experience since of the 56 questionnaire answers only eight teachers stated that they had less than five full years experience. Of these only two have less than three years experience in teaching. The average years of classroom experience presented by those questioned at Kingston High School is 17.20.

The 56 teachers revealed that they instruct an average of 154 students each day. For this work the salary of the group questioned averages $3,441, which is approximately $64 a week. However, this is before any tax deductions are made. Taxes reduce the take home pay to about $55 a week.

Seventy-four per cent of the group are married with approximately two children to each married couple. Each of the 56 teachers according to the survey is supporting an average of 2.4 persons.

Outside work is found necessary by members of the high school faculty and 70 per cent of the teachers do engage in some type of remunerative employment other than their regular teaching.

The jobs taken by the teachers vary greatly and include engineering, carpentry, clerking, factory work, laboratory work, selling, commercial art, painting and decorating, public health work, direct civil service examinations and more teaching.

Of the 56 teachers replying to the questionnaire, over 50 per cent own property in the city of Kingston or expresses the hope that someday he will. Eighteen per cent of the teachers are owners not only in Kingston, but also hold property and pay taxes in other communities as well.

The world's hottest weather does not occur anywhere near the equator.

Craft Work Class At School No. 4

Today's elementary schools seek to provide for "all the children of all the people." There is a very real attempt to study the needs of each child and within the general framework of the specific grade program, to provide experiences which will contribute not only to intellectual development within each child's capacity but to desirable emotional and social attitudes.

At school No. 4 these children are experiencing a program built around their needs and abilities. Attached to their classroom is a small room used as a workshop which they use at certain period of the day. Academic skills of arithmetic and language, work habits of accuracy, neatness and finishing a piece of work, as well as creativeness and cooperation in sharing their small supply of materials are among the outcomes of this activity.

At present, these children are earning money for a class trip. They plan to offer the articles they are making for sale in the nearby future. They are collecting papers; they do odd jobs such as washing cars and running errands. The planning of the trip figuring the cost, deciding when to go, spending their money wisely, reporting on what they have seen, are phases of a practical experience in which all will work together for a common purpose. Is this not an ideal way of helping children to develop the social attitudes needed in our democracy?

Forest Fire Rages Over 40 Acres Near Saxe Farm

An estimated 35 men worked for three hours Tuesday afternoon to extinguish a forest fire that spread over about 40 acres about two miles east of the Ira N. Saxe farm on the Onteora Trail.

The fire was described by a fire warden as a flash ground fire, which spread rapidly on the dry leaves on the ground but did little damage to trees.

Although fire fighters had some difficulty in gaining access to the fire, which spread to the top of the hill, the fire itself was extinguished with water pumps and brooms without unusual difficulty, as the lower layers of leaves were wet, keeping the fire on the ground.

The fire was reported to Aaron Van De Bogart, ranger, about 2:30 p. m. and he called for volunteers from Ulster Hose Company and the Hurley Fire Department. Wardens in charge were Austin Brown, Lawrence Hogan, William O'Kelly and Ray Winne. The fire was out by 6 p. m.

Because of its distance from the highway and from habitations, the fire was the result of carelessness on the part of hunters, fire wardens believe.

Forest Fire Rages Over 40 Acres Near Saxe Farm

An estimated 35 men worked for three hours Tuesday afternoon to extinguish a forest fire that spread over about 40 acres about two miles east of the Ira N. Saxe farm on the Onteora Trail.

The fire was described by a fire warden as a flash ground fire, which spread rapidly on the dry leaves on the ground but did little damage to trees.

Although fire fighters had some difficulty in gaining access to the fire, which spread to the top of the hill, the fire itself was extinguished with water pumps and brooms without unusual difficulty, as the lower layers of leaves were wet, keeping the fire on the ground.

The fire was reported to Aaron Van De Bogart, ranger, about 2:30 p. m. and he called for volunteers from Ulster Hose Company and the Hurley Fire Department. Wardens in charge were Austin Brown, Lawrence Hogan, William O'Kelly and Ray Winne. The fire was out by 6 p. m.

Because of its distance from the highway and from habitations, the fire was the result of carelessness on the part of hunters, fire wardens believe.

As Pegler Sees It

wrote, "the executive secretary of the anti-Nazi League called me. The league was about to develop a large department of investigation. He wanted me to head it. I liked the possibilities for more action and power. The secretary had not exaggerated when he described the league as the world's greatest anti-Nazi organization. Over 500 organized groups made up its more than two million membership. In March, the league appointed me national director of investigation. The department was my responsibility—to run exactly as I thought best."

The two million figure is a gross exaggeration.

Rollins claims credit for the expose and conviction of Fritz Kuhn, the chief of the Hitler Bund in New York. He is mistaken. This feat was the work of Governor Thomas E. Dewey, then district attorney, and his professional staff. Arthur F. Robertson, now a member of the State Liquor Commission, was the principal detective. He does not recall any one named Rollins in that case.

In 1946, a writer in a publication sympathetic to Lipschutz and his league wrote that Lipschutz was doing a gigantic job for the league and had "turned his vast business organization into what is virtually an adjunct of the league."

The nature of Lipschutz's "vast business organization" was not revealed. He was at that time an alien, taking serious liberties with the privacy of American citizens through the money-power of his "vast business organization."

Brandt and Rollins are only two of many professional sneaks who were employed with Lipschutz's money to spy on unsuspecting persons. Both latched onto the OPA as enforcement agents during World War II.

The Society for the Prevention of World War III professes to be an intellectual, education society. Contributions to its treasury are tax-deductable. It is actually a propaganda and pressure group. Its propaganda consistently promotes the Soviet design of conquering all Europe with the least possible exertion and expense, through the Morgenthau plan. The awoved purpose is to keep Germany harmless. There are many notorious Communists or fellow-travelers in the revealed rosters of its officials.

The membership lists of both the league and the society are secret. So are their financial affairs.

The Buchanan committee of the House of Representatives lambasted several societies which defend the U. S. Constitution. It did not make one single mention of either of these outfits in its recent interim report. They are thus far absolutely immune.

Presidental Picture Shifts With Republican Victories

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—Tuesday's elections considerably reshuffled the deck of 1952 presidential and vice presidential possibilities.

Republican victories in Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, and California increased the stature of men who are likely either to be on the GOP national ticket two years hence or have a big voice in the selections.

Conversely, Democratic defeats narrowed the 1952 field for their party by eliminating such prospects as Senator Lucas in Illinois, Myers in Pennsylvania, and Tydings in Maryland and Gov. Bowles in Connecticut.

The fact that the Republicans showed their greatest gains in the midwest and far west — putting back in the GOP fold several states which were a big factor in President Truman's 1948 triumph —could prompt the minority party to go west for their 1952 ticket.

Picking Won't Be Easy

But the picking will not be easy. Members of both the Old Guard and more progressive wings of the GOP made good showings in the mid-term elections, and the 1925 convention might easily be another tug of war between the Dewey and Taft followers.

As of now, the Republicans can see at least nine men who could very likely be considered for either the presidential or vice presidential nominations in 1952.

They are Gov. Earl Warren, of California and Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Senator-elect James H. Duff of Pennsylvania, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, Senator-elect Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Harold E. Stassen, and Paul G. Hoffman, former ECA administrator.

Reelection Is Won

Dewey and Warren, the G.O.P. 1948 standard bearers, won decisive third term reelection victories Tuesday.

Dewey, who has been defeated twice, has said he will not be a candidate for president in 1952, but by his New York victory has assured himself control of the largest Republican delegation to the 1952 convention—a delegation that usually backs the man who gets the nomination.

Warren undoubtedly would loom large in the first choice prospects, coming from the state now ranking second among the 48 in population and having the same number of electoral votes as second-ranking Pennsylvania in the 1952 election.

Taft by his thumping victory over labor-supported Joseph T. Ferguson, Democrat, boosted his chances considerably. But he has already made two fruitless bids for the presidential nomination and there is a good chance the party might turn to some new faces.

Defeats Tydings

John M. Butler holds his hands over his ears in Baltimore after defeating incumbent Democratic Senator Millard Tydings for a U. S. Senate seat. Butler will be the first Republican Maryland has sent to the Upper House since 1926. (AP Wirephoto)

Youth Defends Self

San Francisco, Nov. 9 (AP)—Thomas H. Burgdorf, 23, defended himself against a draft evasion charge by declaring "armed services chaplains are traitors to God." Federal Judge George B. Harris rebuked Burgdorf—a member of Jehovah's Witnesses—for his "shocking" assertion and sentenced him to five years in prison for refusing to take the oath of induction into the army.

Truman Must . . .

the President may be able to keep partially intact his program for helping other nations to build their economic and military strength to resist Communist aggression.

Program Is Favored

Southern Democrats who often leave his camp on domestic issues generally favor this program. Enough of them may rally with administration Democrats and some Republicans to put it across in modified form.

But the going won't be smooth. Senator Taft (R.-Ohio), with the biggest mandate ever given him by Ohio voters, already has made it clear that the foreign military assistance program faces stiff inquiry. Other victorious G.O.P. senators will be encouraged by the election results to increase critical fire on Truman foreign policy.

If Mr. Truman's foreign proposals are in bad shape, his domestic "Fair Deal" program is in even worse condition from a legislative standpoint.

The Brannan farm subsidy payment plan which he fostered turned up its frost-bitten toes even before the election when administration supporters began shying away from it.

Thomas Is Eliminated

One of the chief Senate backers of the President's compulsory health insurance plan was eliminated by the defeat of Senator Elbert D. Thomas (D.-Utah).

The revised lineup of lawmakers in the new Congress may give short shrift to any presidential suggestion for major changes in the anti-subversives law. Its author, Senator McCarran (D.-Nev.) was one of the handful of northern Democratic senators re-elected.

Price and wage controls will come in for a lot of attention. Republicans charged before the election that Mr. Truman failed to use all of his powers to curb inflation. It remains to be seen whether the G.O.P. now is as ardent on that score.

Any efforts to repeal what Mr. Truman has called the "union busting" sections of the Taft-Hartley Act apparently expired at the ballot boxes in Ohio with Taft's re-election.

Coldest Weather

tonight for most of the central states and temperature drops were expected for eastern states as the cold air pushed eastward today. Mild weather continued in most of the Gulf states and the far southwest.

Murders Are Continuing

With U. S. 25th Division, Korea, Nov. 9 (AP)—North Korean Communist soldiers still are murdering American prisoners of war, a division spokesman said today. Seven of 14 American soldiers killed by North Koreans in a minor clash Tuesday had been shot in the head. The spokesman said they were murdered—not killed in battle. The fight occurred in the Ichon area, 60 miles north of Seoul, where a reconnaissance patrol was trapped. The 14 bodies were recovered yesterday.

Bell System . . .

because of the equipment men's strike.

The company had supervisory employes on hand to keep the manual service operating as best they could.

The strike grew out of a dispute between the C.W.A. and the Western Electric Company, manufacturing and installing subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Wages, length of contracts and retroactivity were the key issues in long and fruitless negotiations between the C.W.A. and W.E. The union is seeking benefits for equipment installers, factory workers and warehousemen.

Negotiations Recessed

Negotiations here were recessed after a session that began at 1 p. m. (EST) yesterday. No new session was scheduled.

The dispute centered around demands made by Divisions 6 and 18 of the CWA. No. 6 represents about 10,000 workers who install equipment in telephone buildings. Division 18 represents 6,000 warehousemen and other distribution employes of WE.

The rest of the 33,000 involved in the strike included 16,000 members of CWA Division 15, employes of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, and 685 members of CWA Division 68, employed by Western Electric at a factory at Haverhill, Mass.

Wages, in Division 6 now average $1.62 an hour and in Division 18 they average $1.55 an hour. The company offered wage increases of 10 to 11½ cents an hour, but the union demanded what it called a "substantial" boost. Details of union wage demands were not made public.

The issues involving Divisions 15 and 68 were somewhat different.

Won't Amplify Christmas Music Uptown This Year

The Christmas season in uptown Kingston will be brighter, and quieter, than last year.

Members of the Uptown Businessmen's Association, meeting Wednesday in the J. J. Newberry Company store basement on Wall street, indicated approval of the Christmas decorating committee's tentative plans to extend the holiday lighting from uptown as far as the intersection of Broadway and St. James street.

The members also adopted, without dissent, a motion to eliminate the practice of amplifying music over a loudspeaker system throughout the uptown business section.

Last year, recorded Christmas carols were amplified from a number of loudspeakers located throughout the uptown business section. However, several uptown churches had in past years broadcast organ music or chimes at intervals during the Christmas season and this led to some duplication.

This year, the uptown merchants agreed, the recorded music will be eliminated.

The lights will be turned on the evening of Friday, November 24, the day after Thanksgiving.

Jay Melton, chairman of the decorating committee reported the cost of lighting the uptown section this year will be $3,225. One-third of that amount has already been received as the result of bills sent out through the facilities of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce.

Members of the uptown business group who were present this morning adopted a recommended schedule for pre-Christmas shopping store hours.

The group recommended that stores be open until 9 p. m. on Friday and Saturday, December 15 and 16; and on the following week from Monday to Friday, inclusive. Stores will close at 5 p. m. Saturday, December 23.

The recommended schedule will probably be followed by most uptown stores, but each store manager will be free to decide whether or not to follow the association's recommendation.

MODENA

Modena, Nov. 8—The hall committee is sponsoring a social dance tonight in the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall. Music for dancing will be furnished by Bill Amphor's Orchestra of Walden from 9 to 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Hedges observed their 48th wedding anniversary last week and Saturday night were entertained at cards at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Burton R. Ward. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mills of Leptondale also were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brandon and daughters, Mrs. Francis Palmer and son Christopher, and Mrs. John McGrath and daughter, Margaret of Brewster, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy DuBois and daughter, Marylou, Wednesday.

BROADWAY and EAST STRAND KINGSTON, NEW YORK

Won't Amplify Christmas Music Uptown This Year

The Christmas season in uptown Kingston will be brighter, and quieter, than last year.

Members of the Uptown Businessmen's Association, meeting Wednesday in the J. J. Newberry Company store basement on Wall street, indicated approval of the Christmas decorating committee's tentative plans to extend the holiday lighting from uptown as far as the intersection of Broadway and St. James street.

The members also adopted, without dissent, a motion to eliminate the practice of amplifying music over a loudspeaker system throughout the uptown business section.

Last year, recorded Christmas carols were amplified from a number of loudspeakers located throughout the uptown business section. However, several uptown churches had in past years broadcast organ music or chimes at intervals during the Christmas season and this led to some duplication.

This year, the uptown merchants agreed, the recorded music will be eliminated.

The lights will be turned on the evening of Friday, November 24, the day after Thanksgiving.

Jay Melton, chairman of the decorating committee reported the cost of lighting the uptown section this year will be $3,225. One-third of that amount has already been received as the result of bills sent out through the facilities of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce.

Members of the uptown business group who were present this morning adopted a recommended schedule for pre-Christmas shopping store hours.

The group recommended that stores be open until 9 p. m. on Friday and Saturday, December 15 and 16; and on the following week from Monday to Friday, inclusive. Stores will close at 5 p. m. Saturday, December 23.

The recommended schedule will probably be followed by most uptown stores, but each store manager will be free to decide whether or not to follow the association's recommendation.

Looking for Excuses, Boys Called Burglars

New York, Nov. 9 (AP) — Two boys not old enough to vote are tracing their troubles to the election campaign.

Russell Cunningham and Robert Lee, both 16, played hooky from high school Monday to distribute campaign literature.

Tuesday they stayed out of school again—trying to figure out how to obtain stationery for an absence excuse.

Last night neighbors of Dr. Alexander S. Honig saw two boys enter his office. Police arrested Russell and Robert on charges of burglary.

The boys said they were only looking for prescription blanks on which to write excuses explaining their absence.

Truman Cloaks His Disappointment in Cheery Attitude

Aboard Yacht My Mary Gall, Nov. 9 (AP)—President Truman cloaked his disappointment and probable surprise over Tuesday's Democratic election setbacks behind a cheerful appearance today and pondered his future.

Mr. Truman and his staff were not saying much about the results except to point to the fact that the Democrats retained control of the Senate, 49 to 47, and of the House by what they described as a comfortable majority. It was whittled sharply from the present margin.

As an election aftermath, the question naturally arose whether the President will seek his own reelection in 1952 with the same kind of "give 'em hell" campaign he staged in 1948.

Mr. Truman has never said he will not run again. And he has never said he will. At the same time, there has been no effort on the part of the national committee to build up another Democrat for the contest.

And several of those who have been frequently mentioned as possibilities if the President does not run again were defeated Tuesday. That would seem to put additional party pressure on Mr. Truman to make the race again.

Members of the President's party weren't talking about the future, though. They were still trying to figure out what went wrong Tuesday.

Queried by reporters as to Mr. Truman's explanation for the defeat of top ranking party members, Presidental Secretary Charles G. Ross said tersely:

"The President has not expressed himself as to that."

Mr. Truman and his party meanwhile continued their Potomac river cruise aboard the presidential yacht U.S.S. Williamsburg. Ross described the President to newsmen on this accompanying yacht as "a very cheerful man."

There didn't seem to have much to be cheerful about in the face of Democratic losses which, coupled with the defeat of a number of Mr. Truman's staunchest backers in the Senate, must have been a bitter blow.

Nevertheless, newsmen on this craft got a jaunty wave from the grinning Chief Executive when the two vessels came alongside yesterday.

Looking for Excuses, Boys Called Burglars

New York, Nov. 9 (AP) — Two boys not old enough to vote are tracing their troubles to the election campaign.

Russell Cunningham and Robert Lee, both 16, played hooky from high school Monday to distribute campaign literature.

Tuesday they stayed out of school again—trying to figure out how to obtain stationery for an absence excuse.

Last night neighbors of Dr. Alexander S. Honig saw two boys enter his office. Police arrested Russell and Robert on charges of burglary.

The boys said they were only looking for prescription blanks on which to write excuses explaining their absence.

Jones reported the matter to the state police at Highland station and the deer was turned over to the home.

Ski Fans Assured Of Improved Roads To Belleayre Slope

Those who travel to the road leading to the Belleayre Mountain Ski slope this winter from the Onteora Trail at Highmount will find the road much easier to negotiate and far less traffic snarling.

During the past several days the Ulster County Highway Department has been busy widening the road and putting on a substantial gravel base covered with asphalt and stone. The improvement has been carried out from the Ulster and Delaware railroad bridge to the point of entrance to the Belleayre Ski slope road entrance. Plans call for future improvement of the road to at least the Davenport ski run which lies beyond the State Conservation Department Belleayre Ski Slope.

This route leading to the Belleayre Ski Slope was heavily patronized last winter following opening of the state ski center. The old road was narrow and during heavy thaws was soft, creating traffic delays.

Improvement to the road this fall is expected to eliminate these delays during the skiing season.

County Superintendent of Highways James F. Loughran has made an arrangement between his department and the Conservation Department, which has charge of the Belleayre Ski Slope development, whereby a large Lynn tractor with snow plow attached will be stationed at the garage of the Belleayre slope and in conjunction with the snow removal equipment of the Conservation Department and the Town of Shandaken, it is anticipated will be able to keep the road open for its entire length at all times from any obstruction caused by ice and snow.

This route which runs from the Onteora Trail at Highmount beyond Pine Hill, over the former U. & D. railroad track bridge and past the new state developed Belleayre Ski Slope, continues on past the Davenport ski slope which has been in existence for several years. The road continues to Mapledale in the town of Hardenbergh where it meets the Dry Brook road which rejoins the Onteora Trail at Arkville.

Gives Reds' Strength

Tokyo, Nov. 9 (AP)—General MacArthur's intelligence spokesman estimated today Chinese Communist strength in North Korea totals 60,000. He said Chinese are still coming across the Communist Manchurian border in large numbers. The spokesman said prisoners have identified themselves as being from "18 or 19 different units"—presumably regiments.

Ski Fans Assured Of Improved Roads To Belleayre Slope

Those who travel to the road leading to the Belleayre Mountain Ski slope this winter from the Onteora Trail at Highmount will find the road much easier to negotiate and far less traffic snarling.

During the past several days the Ulster County Highway Department has been busy widening the road and putting on a substantial gravel base covered with asphalt and stone. The improvement has been carried out from the Ulster and Delaware railroad bridge to the point of entrance to the Belleayre Ski slope road entrance. Plans call for future improvement of the road to at least the Davenport ski run which lies beyond the State Conservation Department Belleayre Ski Slope.

This route leading to the Belleayre Ski Slope was heavily patronized last winter following opening of the state ski center. The old road was narrow and during heavy thaws was soft, creating traffic delays.

Improvement to the road this fall is expected to eliminate these delays during the skiing season.

County Superintendent of Highways James F. Loughran has made an arrangement between his department and the Conservation Department, which has charge of the Belleayre Ski Slope development, whereby a large Lynn tractor with snow plow attached will be stationed at the garage of the Belleayre slope and in conjunction with the snow removal equipment of the Conservation Department and the Town of Shandaken, it is anticipated will be able to keep the road open for its entire length at all times from any obstruction caused by ice and snow.

This route which runs from the Onteora Trail at Highmount beyond Pine Hill, over the former U. & D. railroad track bridge and past the new state developed Belleayre Ski Slope, continues on past the Davenport ski slope which has been in existence for several years. The road continues to Mapledale in the town of Hardenbergh where it meets the Dry Brook road which rejoins the Onteora Trail at Arkville.

Rock Island, Ill. (AP)—Without a hitch in their plans, undiscovered thieves made away with a 100-pound antique hitching past from the yard of Fred H. Mills' home in Rock Island.

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

At one time or another all of us have come face to face with a rich blue vase, or dish with a white overlay of figures or flowers in cameo effect, and exclaimed "Ah, Wedgwood!" I really was not quite sure if it was a person's name or just a firm. In the September 1950 issue of "Hobbies" magazine from the Kingston City Library on page 94 are some fine examples of the Wedgwood art and covering Josiah Wedgwood, artist and industrialist. He was born in 1730 in Burslem, center of Staffordshire pottery district, the youngest of 13 children, in the fifth generation of Yeoman potters.

In those days, the pottery industry consisted of families of potters who had a kiln and warehouse attached to their own dwellings. Their product was crude and mostly made from clay of the neighborhood. Their finished products were conveyed on backs of pack horses or sometimes heavy wagons on the principal turnpikes. Years later, Josiah was instrumental in the building of the first canal in Staffordshire.

At the age of six, Josiah was sent to school, but at the age of nine, after his father's death he was apprenticed to his brother, Thomas, to learn the art of potting. At the end of this five year apprenticeship, he had sufficiently mastered his trade to go into partnership with John Harrison in 1752. But Josiah's newer and clever methods did not appeal to Harrison as in 1754 we see Josiah partners with Whieldon.

In 1759 Josiah went into business for himself by renting the Ivy Works for 20 English pounds a year, at which time he added the green glaze familiar to collectors today. He was so industrious, that they said of him, "he went to bed not to rest but to make plans for the following day." In 1764 he was commissioned to manufacture a complete tea service for Queen Charlotte, wife of George III, therefore came the name "Queen's Ware" which is practically the same used today. Aso that year he married Sarah Wedgwood, a cousin.

About this time he took up decorating his dinnerware with copper plate printing, which patents were held by Sadler and Green of Liverpool. On one of these trips he met Thomas Bentley, and a new partnership was started in 1769 lasting till Bentley's death in 1780 which was known as the finest period of Wedgwood history. New property was acquired at Etruria near Stoke-on-Trent, where in 1769 the most modern, scientific and technical knowledge available was used. Josiah took pottery out of the peasant handicraft classification where one man had to accomplish all of the jobs from mixing of the clay to the final decoration. He allowed each craftsman to become proficient in one phase of production, as in use in our most modern plants today.

For his decorations, Wedgwood and Bentley made loans of the finest antique works of art from homes of nobility which they reproduced or adapted, for their pottery. In 1773 Josiah was commisioned by Empress Catherine of Russia to do a 952 piece set, each item with a different view of some famous English castle, country home or landscape. Josiah also was first to commission great artists to do designs for him. The best was none too good for Wedgwood pottery therefore its demand today. Josiah was also known for his many inventions in pottery for medical purposes. He died January 3, 1795, the first manufacturer to use mass production to produce elegant pottery.

G.O.P. to Demand Recount in Race Of Benton, Bush

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 9 (AP)—The Republican party will demand a recount in the tight race for the U. S. Senate between William Benton, the Democrat incumbent, and Prescott Bush, his G.O.P. opponent.

Republican State Chairman Clarence F. Baldwin said last night the recount will be sought because of the importance of the office and because of the bearing the outcome may have on control of the Senate.

If Benton's apparent victory were set aside and Bush named the winner, Democrats and Republicans each would have 48 seats, with Vice President Barkley holding the decisive vote.

Benton's lead over Bush had dwindled to fewer than 1,000 votes on the basis of a state official's preliminary check of official returns.

Other major races had a decisive outcome. U. S. Senator Brien McMahon (D) was reelected to a six-year term. Rep. John Davis Lodge (R) ousted Democratic Governor Bowles.

Sample Is Shown

Seattle, Nov. 9 (AP)—The big signboard at Jim Brady's service station realistically shows a sample of outdoor living in wet weather. To add to the realism, Brady added some decoys. At dusk yesterday a mallard duck sailed in, spotted what appeared to be a pond where some of his feathered friends were swimming, and tried a high-speed landing. Brady got a duck dinner.

New Small Turkeys Are Ideal for Small Family

New small turkey makes tender holiday roast.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Those new 2½ to 6-pound (ready-to-cook) turkeys are perfect for the small family Thanksgiving dinner. They can be broiled, fried or stuffed and roasted. They have become very popular and many families serve two on a platter just to make sure there will be "big eating" all around the table.

Here are instructions from the experts of the Poultry and Egg National Board:

How to Roast a Small Turkey: Stuff turkey just before roasting. Stuffing prepared in advance must be refrigerated. Allow 1 cup stuffing per pound ready-to-cook weight.

Stuffing and Trussing: Rub cavity of bird with ½ to 1 teaspoon salt. Stuff body and wishbone cavities lightly. Close by placing skewers across the body opening and lacing shut with cord. Tie drumsticks securely to tail. Fasten neck skin to back with skewer. Shape wings "akimbo" style, bringing tips onto back.

Roasting Technique: Brush skin with melted fat. Poultry seasoning or other herbs may be sprinkled over the surface. Place trussed bird, breast down, on a shallow open pan. Lay fat-moistened thin cloth (large enough to drape down the sides) over top of turkey.

Slow Roasting: Roast turkey at a low temperature (325-350 degrees) for 2½ to 4 hours, depending on size. Do not sear. Do not add water. Do not cover. Turn bird breast up when about three-fourths done. Roast until tender. If cloth dries during cooking, moisten cloth with fat from bottom of pan.

Test for Doneness: Move leg by grasping end of the bone. The drumstick-thigh joint breaks or moves easily. Or, press drumstick meat between fingers. Meat should be very soft when done. Do not pierce meat with fork.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Pineapple juice, scrambled eggs, toasted English muffins, butter or fortified margarine, jam, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Creamed tuna fish and peas on toast, whole wheat bread, butter or fortified margarine, fruit cup, tea, milk.

THANKSGIVING DINNER: Tomato bouillon, crackers, roasted small turkeys, stuffing, giblet gravy, frosted cranberry and parsley garnish, candied sweet potatoes, French fried zucchini (green squash), chicory and grapefruit section salad, French dressing, steamed Indian meal pudding, whipped cream, coffee, milk.

THE RUMINATOR

A Column of Contrary Opinion
By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

The elections will be over when you read this—so you can settle back and ruminate over what's to come.

Red China's intervention in the Korean war is, of course, the most sobering event since our hopes were aroused that the Korean conflict was winding up.

These two events are linked together, as a matter of fact.

It is no secret that many pronouncements concerning our rearmament program have been held up until the elections were over.

Now with the elections past, and the Korean war taking on a profoundly shocking new turn, we shall undoubtedly learn fast what is in store for the home economy and for the military manpower.

The Communists' intervention will tone down the growing optimistic psychology and it seems probable that the administration will take advantage of this to push out their plans more quickly than might have been done.

It appears logical, for example, that the President will issue a call for an early return of the Congress (although this may depend somewhat upon election results, which were not known as this was written).

The two big questions which will have the attention of business are (1) what form taxes on profits will assume (whether an excess profits' tax, or some form of a special "defense" tax — or even an across-the-board excise tax); and (2) the extent of the military production schedules and how fast they will be released.

It is safe to count on a very stiff tax program, but it is too early to hazard a guess, it seems to me, on what kind of an excess tax will be finally worked out. There is no question but that the excess profits' tax was a terrific penalty on little business that tried to expand, during the last war. A small business that I was closely acquainted with was requested by the war department to expand overnight in the early 1940's—yet, because of the excess profits' tax, which took practically all of this company's wartime earnings, this company found itself in hot water as soon as the war ended. It had not been able to retain a sufficient proportion of its war-time earnings to set up a reserve to carry it through the "adjustment" period after the war orders ceased.

It wasn't a case, mind you, of not being able to retain fat war profits, but a situation where it had trouble surviving because it had expanded at government request. By cutting expenses and executive salaries to the bone the company squeezed by and is still in active business—but it was a close call.

This merely is an example of the inequities in a general profits' tax. So, it seems to the Ruminator that we might find the Congress debating this profits' tax question rather thoroughly—and perhaps hitting upon a much fairer plan. It goes without saying, however, that corporations are going to carry a heavy burden. Unless business and all individuals are taxed heavily we shall be licked by inflation—so there isn't any choice, unfortunately.

As for the second question—military production—the blueprint for the future is not yet printed. But it seems a foregone conclusion that it will reach a figure of around $50 billion a year for the next four, five, or six years.

A great deal will depend, obviously, on what turn the war takes in Korea.

We are sitting on a powder-keg at the moment. Present rearmament thinking has been predicated upon "local outbreaks" not on a third world war. If the intervention by Red China leads to fast-developing wars our program will be speeded up overnight.

In the consequence of the serious wars of the present crisis (which can change overnight while these comments are being set in type) the Ruminator will refrain from guessing—as that is what it would be, mere guessing.

We can emphasize again, nevertheless, that the year ahead is going to prove far more serious from a warlike basis than the public as a whole realizes. It sounds trite, yet it is true, to state that our nation is confronted with the greatest crisis in its history.

Republican Hopes Hinge on Ballots From Absentees

St. Louis, Nov. 9 (AP)—Republican hopes to gain a third seat from Missouri in the House of Representatives appeared to hinge on absentee ballots today.

O. K. Armstrong, Springfield Republican, held an 815-vote lead over Democratic incumbent George H. Christopher in the sixth district in southwest Missouri.

With four precincts and an undetermined number of absentee ballots still to be reported, Armstrong, a free lance writer, had 52,632 votes to 51,817 for Christopher, a first-term representative.

The absentee ballots will be counted today.

In other Missouri congressional races, Democrats came out ahead except in the seventh district where Republican Dewey Short won reelection easily and in the 12th district where Republican Thomas B. Curtis beat first-term Representative Raymond W. Karst, a Democrat.

Dancer Loses Suit

Los Angeles, Nov. 9 (AP)—A British ballet dancer, Brenda Julier, 24, lost in a new effort to have Sabu Dastagir, 26, elephant boy of the movies, support the child she claims he fathered. Superior Judge Elmer D. Doyle dismissed Miss Julier's motions for $200 a month support for her child, Michaela, two, and $5,000 in attorneys' and court fees. Three weeks ago a jury here held that Sabu was not the father of the child.

Dancer Loses Suit

Los Angeles, Nov. 9 (AP)—A British ballet dancer, Brenda Julier, 24, lost in a new effort to have Sabu Dastagir, 26, elephant boy of the movies, support the child she claims he fathered. Superior Judge Elmer D. Doyle dismissed Miss Julier's motions for $200 a month support for her child, Michaela, two, and $5,000 in attorneys' and court fees. Three weeks ago a jury here held that Sabu was not the father of the child.

Warren's Daughter Responds to Polio Serum Treatment

Sacramento, Calif., Nov. 9 (AP)—Nina Warren, the golden-haired and sunshine dispositioned daughter of California's only three-time governor, appeared today to be beating her polio affliction.

The courageous 17-year-old youngest daughter of Gov. and Mrs. Earl Warren responded remarkably. She is paralyzed from the hips down.

She was hospitalized Tuesday (Election Day) morning. That brought the Warrens racing here in tears and canceled his plans for a heavy election night program in San Francisco.

It turned his day of greatest political triumph into his saddest.

Four specialists, including the best polio experts in California, reported:

"Nina's temperature dropped Wednesday in a heartening manner and we are pleased. There has been no extension of trouble and she is radiating her usual happy disposition."

Yesterday, Nine was given serum flown from Chicago. The serum is expected to arrest spread of the disease but does not cure.

Nina—"Honey Bear" to her family and friends—presumably contracted polio at McClatchy High School, where only Friday night she was a bouncing cheer leader. The school has had five cases of polio in two months.

Three other Warren children who were exposed to the polio germ through their sister's affliction are in semi-isolation at the governor's mansion. They are Earl, Jr., and Dorothy, students at the University of California College of Agriculture at Davis, and Bobby, a student at McClatchy high.

Elephant Rustlers

Rangoon (AP)—Elephant rustling is an increasing racket in Burma, according to Commerce Minister Kyaw Myint. In a speech here he explained the elephants are driven across the Indo-Burma border and sold at high profit. He urged the registration of all elephants in the country. Burmese elephants are invaluable to the timber industry where they are specially trained to haul and pile logs.

D.A.R. Junior Group Sees Tumor Clinic

The Junior Group of Wiltwyck Chapter D.A.R. assembled at the Tumor Clinic Monday evening, where they were met by Mrs. Harry Parker VanWagenen, executive director of the Ulster County Branch of the American Cancer Society. Dr. Edward F. Shea, guest speaker, chose cancer of the breast as his topic.

During his talk Dr. Shea outlined the different stages of cancer, stressing the importance of early detection. He also explained that between 85 and 95 per cent of the cancer cases found in early stages are curable. Dr. Shea's lecture was coupled with a movie entitled "Self Examination."

Later in the evening Mrs. Van Wagenen and Dr. Shea conducted the group on a tour through the clinic, giving detailed explanations of the various X-ray machines and other equipment. Mrs. James H. Betts, city chairman of the American Cancer Society, joined the tour and passed out pamphlets.

Following the tour members met at the Chapter House for a short business meeting, with Mrs. Ruth K. Friedell, chairman, presiding. Business included a resolution on the death of Mrs. Joseph R. Zeeh, a member of the Junior Group who died in October; an account by Mrs. Adam H. Porter of this year's state conference; the welcoming of a new members, Mrs. Howard Sismilich; and Mrs. Friedell's announcement that the committee for the annual Christmas dance would consist of the junior advisor and various committee chairmen. The dance committee will meet November 30 at Mrs. Friedell's home.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Alfred M. Relyea, and Miss Winifred Kimball.

New Study Group Will Deal With Pre-School Age

For parents of pre-school children who are often confused, puzzled and worried over the hundreds of daily questions which arize on their sons' or daughters' progress, a new series of meetings on the "Development of the Pre-School Child," under the auspices of the adult education program, is designed.

Hubert Hoderath, chairman of the adult education program, has announced that a small, informal group, limited to practical topics, will hold its first meeting November 13, at 7:30 p. m. in room V-207 of the new Vocational Building. All those interested are urged to attend as applications will be in order of registry.

Those joining the group will be given opportunity to share in the planning, as well as the chance to review the latest films and pamphlets prepared on children. Some of the topics under discussion will be; How can I help my child to be ready for school next year? When should we expect children to be toilet trained, to feed and dress themselves? How does expecting too much affect a child, and how can you know?

Parents all over the country have adopted the method of meeting to discuss the countless questions and problems which arise over the development of this age group. They have welcomed the opportunity to meet and discuss together their questions, and conflicts; to become familiar with the newest in pamphlets, films and books. They have found the small, informal discussion more conducive to sharing individual parental problems than its elder brother, the large lecture course.

Golden Wedding Celebrants

Supervisor and Mrs. Charles Messinger of 59 Andrew street, (she is the former Lena Gregory) celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Tuesday evening with a family dinner held at Leherb's. The couple, who were married at the bride's home in Kingston, have one daughter, Mrs. Helen Johnson, and two grandsons, James and John Johnson. (Crosby Photo)

Junior League Has Forum of 5 On Civil Defense

Five provisional members of the Junior League held a forum on civilian defense when the group met Monday evening at the H. F. King Co. building, with Mrs. William K. Darling as hostess. Moderator for the evening was Sherwood Davis, Kingston director of civilian defense, who gave an outline of the state, county, and city's preparedness program in the eventuality that the enemy should drop an atom bomb. Explaining that the technical knowledge and expense involved in making an atom bomb would limit their use to military and industrial areas, or those with large concentrations of population, Mr. Davis stated that a non-target area like Kingston would have to deal, largely, with evacuation problems

Reporting on public utilities, and their role in emergency plans, Mrs. Harry Rowland explained the Red Cross program to the group, which includes first aid instruction, home nursing, and a nation-wide wartime blood bank.

Aircraft Warning

Next to speak was Mrs. John Kearns, who reported on the Aircraft Warning Service. With the observation tower located on the roof of the Governor Clinton Hotel, 200 persons will be assigned in Kingston alone to maintain a warning service on a round-the-clock basis.

"In case of a real air raid," Mrs. Kearns continued, "the most important things for the civilians to do are to stay indoors and turn on their radio for further instructions. And," she added, "it is of the utmost importance to keep all the streets and highways clear of civilians."

Disaster Evacuation

A report on disaster and emergency evacuation was next given by Mrs. Frank Lawatsch. Naming Kingston's reception center as the Municipal Auditorium, Mrs. Lawatsch discussed evacuee reception problems, as well as the traffic routes which will be followed should the necessity arise to transport persons from disaster areas in and around New York.

Mrs. Lawatsch pointed out that there will be two control groups, a red, and a green. The green control route will bear the concentration of emergency travel from route 17 to Wurtsboro, to route 209 through Ellenville to Kingston. It will be barred to all civilian traffic. Meanwhile the red control group will follow route 9W where essential civilian traffic will be allowed under police direction.

Housing and Police

Miss Cynthia Van Gonsic discussed the selection and training of auxiliary police under the direction of the regular police department, and Mrs. Richard Tucker explained housing and shelter provision for evacuees.

Auxiliary police will be trained by a state-wide standardized method, designed to give the maximum of efficient action, in the event they should be sent to a target area from their own communities.

Mrs. Tucker told of the Ulster county survey which indicated that 150,000 evacuees could be accommodated throughout the area in hotels, resorts, and boarding houses, while an additional survey of private homes will also be made.

Hospital Donation

At the business meeting which followed the forum, the group voted a donation to the Kingston Hospital Building Fund. Because the Junior League is a welfare organization, it has, of necessity, established a policy to refuse most drives. However the League feels that the building fund is of sufficient importance to the community's welfare, to justify breaking their precedent.

An encouraging report was also given by Mrs. Kenneth Davenport, chairman of the Ways and Means committee, on the Junior League Exchange, where the stock of items is being constantly increased. Newly added items include fruit cakes and plum puddings for the holidays, Danish pastry, handmade jewelry, children's handmade mittens, unusual handmade doll clothes, and doll's layettes.

League members each took a Christmas stocking to fill for the Ulster County Children's committee, and Mrs. John Schomer reported that work at the Recreation Center started this week.

NOT WIDOW'S OBLIGATION

A widow writes: "I am expecting a friend to come to see me soon from out of town. He asked—I did not invite him. I can't ask him to stay here at the house as my son and daughter-in-law live with me and there is not room. Do you imagine he expects that I will put him up? Is there any obligation that I take a room for him at the hotel?"

Under usual circumstances he would not expect you to put him up—where he stays is not your responsibility. It would, however, be hospital of you to invite him as often as you can to meals.

Broken Engagement

Dear Mrs. Post: After breaking an engagement will it be necessary to return all the gifts that were given me for my trousseau as well as those already sent in advance of the wedding? Some of the items were given to me quite awhile ago and as there are many I'm not sure I know any more who gave each item.

Answer: You'll have to put on your thinking cap and try to remember as best you can and send them back.

Ushers Privilege

Dear Mrs. Post: Do you think it nice for a husband to ask strange girls to dance with him at a wedding reception?

Answer: If he is a member of the bridal party, yes. If merely a guest, no.

Eating Hamburger

Dear Mrs. Post: My neighbor tells me it is impolite to pick up a whole round hamburger roll sandwich and that it should always (except perhaps at a real picnic) be broken or cut in half. Is this true?

Answer: Usually it is cut in half, but if you have no knife it is best to eat it whole since it is very difficult to tear in half neatly.

Van Kleeck Party Stars Vaudeville And African Film

A vaudeville stage show and a semi-educational film on Africa co-starred Monday night on the Kingston High School auditorium stage, where over 300 persons were attending the Everett Van Kleeck & Co.'s family party. Entertainment opened with a medley of popular tunes by the show's expert pianist, Freddy Douglas.

After welcoming the audience William Johnson turned over the show to emcee Marty Lynch who sprinkled the evening with witticisms and jokes.

Heading the program was a technicolor reel, "An African Adventure," which followed the exploits of Commander Attilio Catti's 11th African expedition. Meanwhile Marie and Lee's vocal duet opened the stage show, with the pair accompanying themselves on the guitar and accordion. Other highlights included ventriloquist Harlan Matson, ably assisted by his dummy, Willie Winkle; Marty Lynch, outfitted in his old Ringling Bros. clown costume, and comedy slapstick featuring those two past masters of side splitting pantomine, Lou Costello and Bud Abbott.

Second part of the program opened with Tommy King, who, appearing as "Tony, the Serviceman," baffled his audience by squeezing music from a fire extinguisher, tire pump, flit can, carpenter's saw, rubber hose, balloon, and an inner-tube.

The evening ended after Harlan Matson gave a sleight-of-hand display and carried on an interval of old-time slap-stick with Marty Lynch, the farmer boy looking for a seat, and Marie and Lee had sung a medley of favorite cowboy tunes.

D.A.R. Junior Group Sees Tumor Clinic

The Junior Group of Wiltwyck Chapter D.A.R. assembled at the Tumor Clinic Monday evening, where they were met by Mrs. Harry Parker VanWagenen, executive director of the Ulster County Branch of the American Cancer Society. Dr. Edward F. Shea, guest speaker, chose cancer of the breast as his topic.

During his talk Dr. Shea outlined the different stages of cancer, stressing the importance of early detection. He also explained that between 85 and 95 per cent of the cancer cases found in early stages are curable. Dr. Shea's lecture was coupled with a movie entitled "Self Examination."

Later in the evening Mrs. Van Wagenen and Dr. Shea conducted the group on a tour through the clinic, giving detailed explanations of the various X-ray machines and other equipment. Mrs. James H. Betts, city chairman of the American Cancer Society, joined the tour and passed out pamphlets.

Following the tour members met at the Chapter House for a short business meeting, with Mrs. Ruth K. Friedell, chairman, presiding. Business included a resolution on the death of Mrs. Joseph R. Zeeh, a member of the Junior Group who died in October; an account by Mrs. Adam H. Porter of this year's state conference; the welcoming of a new members, Mrs. Howard Sismilich; and Mrs. Friedell's announcement that the committee for the annual Christmas dance would consist of the junior advisor and various committee chairmen. The dance committee will meet November 30 at Mrs. Friedell's home.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Alfred M. Relyea, and Miss Winifred Kimball.

New Study Group Will Deal With Pre-School Age

For parents of pre-school children who are often confused, puzzled and worried over the hundreds of daily questions which arize on their sons' or daughters' progress, a new series of meetings on the "Development of the Pre-School Child," under the auspices of the adult education program, is designed.

Hubert Hoderath, chairman of the adult education program, has announced that a small, informal group, limited to practical topics, will hold its first meeting November 13, at 7:30 p. m. in room V-207 of the new Vocational Building. All those interested are urged to attend as applications will be in order of registry.

Those joining the group will be given opportunity to share in the planning, as well as the chance to review the latest films and pamphlets prepared on children. Some of the topics under discussion will be; How can I help my child to be ready for school next year? When should we expect children to be toilet trained, to feed and dress themselves? How does expecting too much affect a child, and how can you know?

Parents all over the country have adopted the method of meeting to discuss the countless questions and problems which arise over the development of this age group. They have welcomed the opportunity to meet and discuss together their questions, and conflicts; to become familiar with the newest in pamphlets, films and books. They have found the small, informal discussion more conducive to sharing individual parental problems than its elder brother, the large lecture course.

Golden Wedding Celebrants

Junior League Has Forum of 5 On Civil Defense

Five provisional members of the Junior League held a forum on civilian defense when the group met Monday evening at the H. F. King Co. building, with Mrs. William K. Darling as hostess. Moderator for the evening was Sherwood Davis, Kingston director of civilian defense, who gave an outline of the state, county, and city's preparedness program in the eventuality that the enemy should drop an atom bomb. Explaining that the technical knowledge and expense involved in making an atom bomb would limit their use to military and industrial areas, or those with large concentrations of population, Mr. Davis stated that a non-target area like Kingston would have to deal, largely, with evacuation problems

Reporting on public utilities, and their role in emergency plans, Mrs. Harry Rowland explained the Red Cross program to the group, which includes first aid instruction, home nursing, and a nation-wide wartime blood bank.

Aircraft Warning

Next to speak was Mrs. John Kearns, who reported on the Aircraft Warning Service. With the observation tower located on the roof of the Governor Clinton Hotel, 200 persons will be assigned in Kingston alone to maintain a warning service on a round-the-clock basis.

"In case of a real air raid," Mrs. Kearns continued, "the most important things for the civilians to do are to stay indoors and turn on their radio for further instructions. And," she added, "it is of the utmost importance to keep all the streets and highways clear of civilians."

Disaster Evacuation

A report on disaster and emergency evacuation was next given by Mrs. Frank Lawatsch. Naming Kingston's reception center as the Municipal Auditorium, Mrs. Lawatsch discussed evacuee reception problems, as well as the traffic routes which will be followed should the necessity arise to transport persons from disaster areas in and around New York.

Mrs. Lawatsch pointed out that there will be two control groups, a red, and a green. The green control route will bear the concentration of emergency travel from route 17 to Wurtsboro, to route 209 through Ellenville to Kingston. It will be barred to all civilian traffic. Meanwhile the red control group will follow route 9W where essential civilian traffic will be allowed under police direction.

Housing and Police

Miss Cynthia Van Gonsic discussed the selection and training of auxiliary police under the direction of the regular police department, and Mrs. Richard Tucker explained housing and shelter provision for evacuees.

Auxiliary police will be trained by a state-wide standardized method, designed to give the maximum of efficient action, in the event they should be sent to a target area from their own communities.

Mrs. Tucker told of the Ulster county survey which indicated that 150,000 evacuees could be accommodated throughout the area in hotels, resorts, and boarding houses, while an additional survey of private homes will also be made.

Hospital Donation

At the business meeting which followed the forum, the group voted a donation to the Kingston Hospital Building Fund. Because the Junior League is a welfare organization, it has, of necessity, established a policy to refuse most drives. However the League feels that the building fund is of sufficient importance to the community's welfare, to justify breaking their precedent.

An encouraging report was also given by Mrs. Kenneth Davenport, chairman of the Ways and Means committee, on the Junior League Exchange, where the stock of items is being constantly increased. Newly added items include fruit cakes and plum puddings for the holidays, Danish pastry, handmade jewelry, children's handmade mittens, unusual handmade doll clothes, and doll's layettes.

League members each took a Christmas stocking to fill for the Ulster County Children's committee, and Mrs. John Schomer reported that work at the Recreation Center started this week.

Musical Society Bases Program On Handel's Work

The life of George Frederick Handel, coupled with a musical program of his works, marked the second fall meeting of the Kingston Musical Society when it met last night at the home of Miss Anne Goldrick, 39 West Chestnut street. Mrs. Willard Burke was chairman.

First on the evening's program was Miss Caroline Little, who gave a short biography of the German-born composer who later became a British citizen. Enumerating the various accomplishments of Handel's life, she explained that he wrote his first opera while only 18, although he had written numerous sonatas at an earlier age, while his first oratorio, "Esther," was completed when he was 33. She also told of the opening presentation of his most famous work, "The Messiah," which was played at a charity event in Dublin, after Handel had become director of England's Royal Academy of Music.

After Miss Little's biography, the folowing program was given: Selections from the "Water Music," a piano solo by Miss Lucinda Merritt; "O Lord, Correct Me," vocal solo by Miss Eleano DeWeese, accompanied by Miss Merritt; "Concerto in G Minor," a clarinet solo by Mrs. Helen Newcombe, accompanied by Mrs. William Rylance; "The Harmonious Blacksmith" (Suite 5) a piano solo by Mrs. Willard Burke; "O Sleep Why Dost Thou Leave Me" (Semele) a vocal solo by Mrs. Clarence Wolfersteig accompanied by Mrs. Rylance; "Sonata for Violin and Piano," (Adagio, Allegro, Largo, Allegro,) by guest Mrs. Donald E. Brown, and Mrs. Lester Decker.

Before each piece was played the performer gave a short study and interpretation.

Hostesses were Mrs. Arthur F. Sheldon and Miss Helen Sheldon. The group also decided to give a commencement prize at Kingston High School in June for the best all around music student.

Police to Stage Benefit Boxing Show Nov. 16 for Kingston Boys Club

Salvati and Prince Booked for Feature Bout at Auditorium

Boxing dormant since B'nai B'rith gave up promotion of the amateur sport more than a month ago will be revived on Thursday, Nov. 16.

Announcement of resumption of the sport was made today by a committee interested in raising funds for the Kingston Boys Club.

Featured bout on the card will bring together two lightweights rated among the best in the east —Vince Salvati of Schenectady and Eddie (Red) Prince of Poughkeepsie.

The Kingston Patrolmen's Benevolent Association is behind the venture. Tickets will go on sale tomorrow.

When B'nai B'rith decided to discontinue promotion of boxing, two identified with the ring sport over a period of 20 years decided to arrange the Boys Club benefit show in conjunction with the police.

Idea of Singer, Kelly

Police Commissioner Bill Singer and Joe Kelly, alderman-at-large thought boxing fans might like to patronize a show for the youngsters, and the P.B.A. members at a meeting voted to get behind the venture.

The patrolmen have been sponsors of various projects for the boys such as bus trips to New York and their new venture is expected to be a rousing success.

Sergeant Lemuel Howard of the police, one of the members of the board of trustees for the Boys Club, is most enthusiastic about the boxing show and is anxious to raise a nice sum for the organization.

According to the police, the club is one of the main factors in combatting juvenile delinquency.

Chief of Police Raymond Van Buren and all of his men agree that the boys deserve full support from all who are interested in helping youth.

Top Bout Picked

Singer and Kelly picked the Salvati-Prince bout to top the bill of scraps, feeling certain that these two young athletes will furnish plenty of action.

Salvati is the featherweight champion of the Adirondack District of the A.A.U. and was a runner-up in the nationals at Boston. Since the tournaments he has taken on enough weight to box in the lightweight class.

Prince is rated as one of the best 135-pound prospects ever developed in Poughkeepsie. Appearing on the last card promoted by B'nai B'rith, he won by a knockout in the first round.

Both boys are seasoned scrappers and good punchers.

Ben M. Becker of Albany, boxing chairman of the Adirondack A.A.U. in sanctioning the boys club card, said that Salvati is one up on Prince, having outpointed him during the summer in an upstate bout.

"It was a terrific scrap," he said. "Prince thought he won and has been waiting for another crack at Salvati."

The rest of the card will be announced in the near future.

Anyone desiring a ticket may contact the police department.

Giants Lose Griffith

Forrest Griffith, star rookie halfback from Kansas, will be lost to the New York football Giants for the balance of the season. Griffith suffered a fractured skull in last Sunday's game against the Washington Redskins. The hard-running 21-year-old Kansas graduate, has been one of the most effective Giant ball-carriers. The Giants will meet the Chicago Cardinals at the Polo Grounds Sunday.

Hoople Picks Irish Over Pitt In Big Upset

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
(Gallup's Boy)

Egad! I have been saving one of my juiciest upsets all season and I am prepared to announce it now.

So, hold your hats everybody, here it is: Notre Dame to beat Pittsburgh by a score of 26 to 14!

Many a year has passed since the Panther invaded South Bend as a favorite over the Fighting Irish. Those were the days when the late Dr. Jock Sutherland produced powerful teams at Pitt. But the cycle has turned its course, and now we find Pitt rated a touchdown better than the Leahy Larrupers.

One other upset is in the cards. You may be astounded when I tell you Virginia Military will defeat Georgia Tech, but that's how it's going to be, zillions of gentle readers.

Colgate Over Cornell

Colgate over Cornell is my big one for the east.

My pal, Bill Burke, should get by Middletown High Saturday and the crystal ball says N.F.A. will romp over Port Jervis. That leaves it up to the Thanksgiving Day game to settle the DUSO League pennant. I will delay my predictions for the big game until all Newburgh precincts have reported.

Now, go right ahead with the rest of the program.

Indians' Hopes Soar

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 9 (AP)—Dartmouth's hopes of a win over Columbia soared today as a result of forward passing ace Johnny Clayton's return to playing condition. Coach Tuss McLaughry gave his sharpshooter's injured ankle a thorough testing during yesterday's practice session and it stood up well. As a result, the Indians have high hopes Clayton will be able to outduel Columbia's famed Mitch Price, who has completed more than half of his aerial attempts to date.

Schafer to Form Young Cage Loop

Formation of the Cadet 'Y' Basketball League will take place Saturday at 10:30 a. m. for all boys between 11, 12 and 13 years of age, Lou Schafer, physical director, said today.

According to present plans, the league will have games every Saturday morning on the Y boards.

The league is open to all boys in the above age brackets who are members in the Cadet class of the Y Boys' Division.

Odds Mean Little To Paddy Young

New York, Nov. 9 (AP)—Army-bound Paddy Young of New York's Greenwich Village has been an underdog all his life. That's why he pays little attention to the odds favoring Laurent Dauthuille of France in tomorrow's Madison Square Garden fight.

If Uncle Sam doesn't call him to service too soon he hopes to upset the Frenchman and follow up with a Rocky Graziano match. Paddy already has passed his physical exam but hasn't been called.

Upsetting the Frenchman calls for a bit of doing. Dauthuille came within 13 seconds of lifting Jake LaMotta's middleweight title at Detroit Sept. 13. He's gunning for another go with Bronx Jake.

Early odds ranked as high as 13 to 5 but the boys hammered it down to about 9 to 5 with Dauthuille favored last night.

They made Paddy the choice when he fought Tuzo Portuguez the first time Jan. 13. The pride of Greenwich Village was on a 12-fight win streak when he subbed for Steve Belloise against the little known Costa Rican.

After knocking down Portuguez in the second round, Paddy was forced to retire in the eighth because of a badly cut eye.

Next time around Feb. 24 Young evened the score with a 10-round win.

Charlie Fusari was the early choice over Young May 12 although it was about even when they went into the ring. Young banged out a decision.

Owners Will Act On Series Money For Player Fund

Versailles, Ky., Nov. 9 (AP)—A recommendation that the bulk of the $975,000 received from World Series radio and television rights be put into the player pension fund will be put before the baseball club owners at a meeting in Cincinnati Nov. 16.

Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler said last night an agreement to make the recommendation was reached in a conference yesterday. He said he conferred at his home here with Marty Marion of the St. Louis Cardinals, the National League player representative, and Freddie Hutchinson of the Detroit Tigers, representative of the American League players.

Chandler said the three had at their disposal "full information" from insurance actuaries and tax experts for study. He added that the league representatives have "no differences" about putting the money into a central fund from which pensions are paid.

A minimum of 10 years service in the major leagues would make a player eligible for a $100 a month pension after reaching the age of 50.

The owners must ratify the proposal for putting the money into pensions.

A demand that the series money be distributed among the series players was made earlier by the players. Chandler said there is no disagreement now on how the money should be used.

Frank Filchock, who was banned from the National Football League for four years because of a bribe offer, has been signed by the Baltimore Colts. Ken Williams Blasts 280-708 In Central Rec Major Action

Both Marks Set Records for Loop

The Central Recreation alleys may not be a paradise to all kegers seeking high scores but take it from members of the Central Rec Major League the Railroad avenue lanes will linger around until something better comes along.

One of the best authorities on this is Ken Williams, a veteran trundler of these parts, who hit the jackpot Wednesday night during the regular league matches.

Williams, firing strikes all over the place, rammed home a sizzling 280 single and 708 triple in league action last night to pace another big night of scoring at the Rec drives.

With his strike ball finding the pocket in continuous fashion, Williams established two new league marks before calling it a night.

Wililams opened the night's activities with a 234 single and followed that in order with a tremendous 280 game. He tapered off in his final try and struggled in with 194 to roll up the 708 blast.

Williams' 280 crusher replaced Harold Broskie's former high game of 278 for the league while his 708 three-timer topped the previous high individual triple of Larry Weishaupt who had a 689 series to his credit.

Amacos Hit 1121

All of Williams' terrific pin-busting enabled the high-powered Amocos to enjoy a big night with a 1121 team single and 3061 team triple.

The 1121 score eclipsed the team's former high single of 1114 set a few weeks ago. The 3061 team blast fell short of the club's record 3140 set previously.

While Williams and the Amocos were grabbing headlines, several other top-notch scores were being turned in elsewhere in the loop.

Randy Kelder finished in the runnerup slot for individual honors with his fine string of 203-235-222 for 660. Ken Joseph rapped out 214-201-227 for 642; Larry Weishaupt 232-225-640; Charlie Grunenwald 213-220-620; and P. Myers 205-214-601.

Police to Stage Benefit Boxing Show Nov. 16 for Kingston Boys Club

Salvati and Prince Booked for Feature Bout at Auditorium

Boxing dormant since B'nai B'rith gave up promotion of the amateur sport more than a month ago will be revived on Thursday, Nov. 16.

Announcement of resumption of the sport was made today by a committee interested in raising funds for the Kingston Boys Club.

Featured bout on the card will bring together two lightweights rated among the best in the east —Vince Salvati of Schenectady and Eddie (Red) Prince of Poughkeepsie.

The Kingston Patrolmen's Benevolent Association is behind the venture. Tickets will go on sale tomorrow.

When B'nai B'rith decided to discontinue promotion of boxing, two identified with the ring sport over a period of 20 years decided to arrange the Boys Club benefit show in conjunction with the police.

Idea of Singer, Kelly

Police Commissioner Bill Singer and Joe Kelly, alderman-at-large thought boxing fans might like to patronize a show for the youngsters, and the P.B.A. members at a meeting voted to get behind the venture.

The patrolmen have been sponsors of various projects for the boys such as bus trips to New York and their new venture is expected to be a rousing success.

Sergeant Lemuel Howard of the police, one of the members of the board of trustees for the Boys Club, is most enthusiastic about the boxing show and is anxious to raise a nice sum for the organization.

According to the police, the club is one of the main factors in combatting juvenile delinquency.

Chief of Police Raymond Van Buren and all of his men agree that the boys deserve full support from all who are interested in helping youth.

Top Bout Picked

Singer and Kelly picked the Salvati-Prince bout to top the bill of scraps, feeling certain that these two young athletes will furnish plenty of action.

Salvati is the featherweight champion of the Adirondack District of the A.A.U. and was a runner-up in the nationals at Boston. Since the tournaments he has taken on enough weight to box in the lightweight class.

Prince is rated as one of the best 135-pound prospects ever developed in Poughkeepsie. Appearing on the last card promoted by B'nai B'rith, he won by a knockout in the first round.

Both boys are seasoned scrappers and good punchers.

Ben M. Becker of Albany, boxing chairman of the Adirondack A.A.U. in sanctioning the boys club card, said that Salvati is one up on Prince, having outpointed him during the summer in an upstate bout.

"It was a terrific scrap," he said. "Prince thought he won and has been waiting for another crack at Salvati."

The rest of the card will be announced in the near future.

Anyone desiring a ticket may contact the police department.

Giants Lose Griffith

Forrest Griffith, star rookie halfback from Kansas, will be lost to the New York football Giants for the balance of the season. Griffith suffered a fractured skull in last Sunday's game against the Washington Redskins. The hard-running 21-year-old Kansas graduate, has been one of the most effective Giant ball-carriers. The Giants will meet the Chicago Cardinals at the Polo Grounds Sunday.

Hoople Picks Irish Over Pitt In Big Upset

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
(Gallup's Boy)

Egad! I have been saving one of my juiciest upsets all season and I am prepared to announce it now.

So, hold your hats everybody, here it is: Notre Dame to beat Pittsburgh by a score of 26 to 14!

Many a year has passed since the Panther invaded South Bend as a favorite over the Fighting Irish. Those were the days when the late Dr. Jock Sutherland produced powerful teams at Pitt. But the cycle has turned its course, and now we find Pitt rated a touchdown better than the Leahy Larrupers.

One other upset is in the cards. You may be astounded when I tell you Virginia Military will defeat Georgia Tech, but that's how it's going to be, zillions of gentle readers.

Colgate Over Cornell

Colgate over Cornell is my big one for the east.

My pal, Bill Burke, should get by Middletown High Saturday and the crystal ball says N.F.A. will romp over Port Jervis. That leaves it up to the Thanksgiving Day game to settle the DUSO League pennant. I will delay my predictions for the big game until all Newburgh precincts have reported.

Now, go right ahead with the rest of the program.

Indians' Hopes Soar

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 9 (AP)—Dartmouth's hopes of a win over Columbia soared today as a result of forward passing ace Johnny Clayton's return to playing condition. Coach Tuss McLaughry gave his sharpshooter's injured ankle a thorough testing during yesterday's practice session and it stood up well. As a result, the Indians have high hopes Clayton will be able to outduel Columbia's famed Mitch Price, who has completed more than half of his aerial attempts to date.

Elstons Turn Back Firemen by 71-68; Hooker Scores 28

With LeRoy Hooker showing the way with a fine burst of offensive power, Elston Sports registered a 71 to 68 squeaker victory over the Esopus Firemen in the B Division of the Y Basketball League Wednesday night.

Hooker found the range for a total of 28 points—13 fields and a pair of converted fouls—for his top-heavy score.

Jumping off to a quick lead, Elstons led at the first period by 17 to 4 with an apparent rout in view. The Esopus basketeers suddenly righted themselves in the midway period, however, and closed the gap at 33-27 at the half.

Elstons, with Hooker, Camp, Priest and George Hooker leading the attack, took a 16-point edge at the third period with 24 points in the third canto.

The Firemen, refusing to play "dead," bounced back again in the final period with 27 points to Elstons' 14 but trailed at the finish by three points.

Camp pushed in 11 for the winners while Priest and G. Hooker hit for 10 apiece. Wilson with 20 led the losers. Burgher registered 18 and Mains 10 in the losing cause.

Chevies Triumph

The fast-moving Accord Chevies notched their third win of the campaign in the other half of the twin-bill with a 62 to 42 victory over the Yellow Jackets. The winners held a 31-21 lead at the half.

Ebert's 20 points sparked the winners while Harris found the range for 25 for the Jackets.

Saturday's Games

A couple of vital games will make up the Saturday night basketball menu at the Y boards. Wiltwyck Motors will meet Chez Emile in the 7:30 clash while Schuler's Inn and the Flying Saucers collide in the 8:30 attraction. Second place is at stake at both games.

Bowling

Bill Hornbeck, the former baseball flinger, tossed plenty of strikes in his stint with the Y Federation American League trundlers Wednesday night on the Broadway planks.

Hornbeck, setting the pace with a hefty 625 three-timer, fired games of 181-209 and a big 235.

Ten pins below the "600" circle was Roy Van Bramer with 221-590. His other counts were 177 and 192.

Also of note were Don Weeks with 535; Craig Plough 201-506; Doug Kennedy 505; and Art Crist 500.

Dick Little was Mr. Big in the Federation National trundling Tuesday night on the Y drives with a 161-201-192-554 series. Runnerup J. Fatum posted 529; Howard Minard 515; Ed Kittle 495; Fred Short 488 and E. Himmelsback 478.

Eunice Scully put together three scores in the 140's to pace the Business Girls League with a 436 series on the Bowlatorium planks. M. Dunn with 422, O. Sturgeon 420 and S. O'Bryan with 407 rounded out the top bracket.

A new name, Ken Hendricks, popped up as the Booster League leader with 159-148-202-509 at the Bowlodrome. Ed Lindhurst with 503 and Lou Scism with 501 were the other keglers who went over the coveted mark. J. Tremper posted 499, T. Meredith 489, W. Maisenhelder 487, B. Goldstein 484 and Bob Tierney 481.

Every so often, smiling Frank Russano, the guy who invented the Pepsodent smile, let's the big guys realize that he knows a few things about hitting the 1-3 pocket with his trusty mineralite.

In last night's Silver Palace League whirl, Russano was slightly torrid with a rousing 669 triple on games of 246, 200 and 223. This is probably the league record for the season, although the league correspondent made no mention of the fact.

Trailing Russano were such worthy performers as John Frederick 209-573; Jack Martin 216-571; Elwood Robinson 201-206-567; Huck Svirsky 211-566; Charlie Horne 201-561; Herm Seelbach 557; Carl Beatty 208-555; Pete Schline 550; Joe Mannello 212-546 and Jim Costello 219-544.

Fleck overcame a ragged 138 start with counts of 201 and 229 for a runnerup 568. Other top bracket developments included Joe Costello's 200-208-560; Joe "New Groom" Fautz 207-556; Chris Gallo 203-551; Ray Houghtaling 202-547; Harry Hines 201-546 and Jim Moss 537.

Miriam Posner, secretary of the Friendship League, and Evelyn Gross, equestrienne, and perennial challenger for high average honors last night, with Mrs. Posner's 174-199-176 spread-eagling the field by quite a margin. Mrs. Gross, the runnerup fired 502. Down the line came Dot Rawding with 492, Marge Jansen 486, Phyl Gehringer 485, Eleanor Singer 474, Dot Flemings 464, Winnie Overfield 450 and Kay Brodhead ditto.

The boys were at it again in the City League, piling up seven "600" triples and Steve Leone, running a hot streak, was out in front with 644 on games of 205, 233, 206.

Bill Kuehn trailed by only a stick with his 235-213-195-643. Charlie Manfro hammered 209-232-634, Ken Joseph 227-225-626; E. Alward 212-604; Hod Spaulding 224-205-603, George Robinson 235-601 and Phil Corrado 208-596.

Top bowler in the Women's Major this week at the Bowlodrome was Dot Rawding, who with Evelyn Gross and Beverly Port rate as the trio most likely to succeed Rose Schatzel as local bowling queen. Mrs. Rawding sandwiched a 222 with 137 and 165 for a league-leading 524. Runnerup was Mary Wyant who shot 498. Dot Flemings finished strongly with 197-481, Beverly Port had 475, Grace Sabo Wojciehowski 474, M. Francella 207-470, Ada Markle and Sue Heins, 169 each.

City Minor League trundlers harvested a bumper crop of thirty "500" series in heavy pin toppling featured by Pete Tiano's 581, with 179, 188 and 214.

Tony LaRocca fired 202-203-566; Joe Bartsch, Jr. 206-560; Tom Yonta 211-558; Joe Dulin 555; G. Kearney 554; G. Schneider 210-552; Jack Haulenbeek 201-550; Leo Bechtold 547; N. Savino 542; J. Spadafora 540; Frank Nerone 204-539; J. Lucas 535; Leroy Webber ditto; Joe Hoffman 534; H. Grube 200-526; Joe Bartsch, Sr. 523.

Five other hit "400" or better: Lillian Ferraro 423, Mae Martalto 423; Dorothea Walthery 415, Nellie Alverson 411 and Nell Glennon 401. Nellie Alverson's 164 was high single for the night.

Mabel Davis fired 478; Sally Kuehn 453; Eleanor Dumenigo 443.

Elstons Turn Back Firemen by 71-68; Hooker Scores 28

With LeRoy Hooker showing the way with a fine burst of offensive power, Elston Sports registered a 71 to 68 squeaker victory over the Esopus Firemen in the B Division of the Y Basketball League Wednesday night.

Hooker found the range for a total of 28 points—13 fields and a pair of converted fouls—for his top-heavy score.

Jumping off to a quick lead, Elstons led at the first period by 17 to 4 with an apparent rout in view. The Esopus basketeers suddenly righted themselves in the midway period, however, and closed the gap at 33-27 at the half.

Elstons, with Hooker, Camp, Priest and George Hooker leading the attack, took a 16-point edge at the third period with 24 points in the third canto.

The Firemen, refusing to play "dead," bounced back again in the final period with 27 points to Elstons' 14 but trailed at the finish by three points.

Camp pushed in 11 for the winners while Priest and G. Hooker hit for 10 apiece. Wilson with 20 led the losers. Burgher registered 18 and Mains 10 in the losing cause.

Chevies Triumph

The fast-moving Accord Chevies notched their third win of the campaign in the other half of the twin-bill with a 62 to 42 victory over the Yellow Jackets. The winners held a 31-21 lead at the half.

Ebert's 20 points sparked the winners while Harris found the range for 25 for the Jackets.

Saturday's Games

A couple of vital games will make up the Saturday night basketball menu at the Y boards. Wiltwyck Motors will meet Chez Emile in the 7:30 clash while Schuler's Inn and the Flying Saucers collide in the 8:30 attraction. Second place is at stake at both games.

Set for Vital Swing

Los Angeles, Nov. 9 (AP)—The Los Angeles Rams, who are the joy and consternation of pro football fans here—and sometimes they are both at the same time—take off today on a vital three-game swing to the midwest and east. President Dan Reeves' Rollicking Rams are riding in front of four straight wins and shooting for their second successive divisional title in the tough National League as they face games with Green Bay, the New York Yanks and the Chicago Bears.

Toronto—Alan McFater, 139¾, Toronto, knocked out Tommy Greb, 137, Boston, 2.

Bowling

Bill Hornbeck, the former baseball flinger, tossed plenty of strikes in his stint with the Y Federation American League trundlers Wednesday night on the Broadway planks.

Hornbeck, setting the pace with a hefty 625 three-timer, fired games of 181-209 and a big 235.

Ten pins below the "600" circle was Roy Van Bramer with 221-590. His other counts were 177 and 192.

Also of note were Don Weeks with 535; Craig Plough 201-506; Doug Kennedy 505; and Art Crist 500.

Dick Little was Mr. Big in the Federation National trundling Tuesday night on the Y drives with a 161-201-192-554 series. Runnerup J. Fatum posted 529; Howard Minard 515; Ed Kittle 495; Fred Short 488 and E. Himmelsback 478.

Eunice Scully put together three scores in the 140's to pace the Business Girls League with a 436 series on the Bowlatorium planks. M. Dunn with 422, O. Sturgeon 420 and S. O'Bryan with 407 rounded out the top bracket.

A new name, Ken Hendricks, popped up as the Booster League leader with 159-148-202-509 at the Bowlodrome. Ed Lindhurst with 503 and Lou Scism with 501 were the other keglers who went over the coveted mark. J. Tremper posted 499, T. Meredith 489, W. Maisenhelder 487, B. Goldstein 484 and Bob Tierney 481.

Every so often, smiling Frank Russano, the guy who invented the Pepsodent smile, let's the big guys realize that he knows a few things about hitting the 1-3 pocket with his trusty mineralite.

In last night's Silver Palace League whirl, Russano was slightly torrid with a rousing 669 triple on games of 246, 200 and 223. This is probably the league record for the season, although the league correspondent made no mention of the fact.

Fleck overcame a ragged 138 start with counts of 201 and 229 for a runnerup 568. Other top bracket developments included Joe Costello's 200-208-560; Joe "New Groom" Fautz 207-556; Chris Gallo 203-551; Ray Houghtaling 202-547; Harry Hines 201-546 and Jim Moss 537.

Miriam Posner, secretary of the Friendship League, and Evelyn Gross, equestrienne, and perennial challenger for high average honors last night, with Mrs. Posner's 174-199-176 spread-eagling the field by quite a margin. Mrs. Gross, the runnerup fired 502. Down the line came Dot Rawding with 492, Marge Jansen 486, Phyl Gehringer 485, Eleanor Singer 474, Dot Flemings 464, Winnie Overfield 450 and Kay Brodhead ditto.

The boys were at it again in the City League, piling up seven "600" triples and Steve Leone, running a hot streak, was out in front with 644 on games of 205, 233, 206.

Bill Kuehn trailed by only a stick with his 235-213-195-643. Charlie Manfro hammered 209-232-634, Ken Joseph 227-225-626; E. Alward 212-604; Hod Spaulding 224-205-603, George Robinson 235-601 and Phil Corrado 208-596.

Top bowler in the Women's Major this week at the Bowlodrome was Dot Rawding, who with Evelyn Gross and Beverly Port rate as the trio most likely to succeed Rose Schatzel as local bowling queen. Mrs. Rawding sandwiched a 222 with 137 and 165 for a league-leading 524. Runnerup was Mary Wyant who shot 498. Dot Flemings finished strongly with 197-481. Beverly Port had 475, Grace Sabo Wojciehowski 474, M. Francella 207-470, Ada Markle and Sue Heins, 169 each.

City Minor League trundlers harvested a bumper crop of thirty "500" series in heavy pin toppling featured by Pete Tiano's 581, with 179, 188 and 214.

Tony LaRocca fired 202-203-566; Joe Bartsch, Jr. 206-560; Tom Yonta 211-558; Joe Dulin 555; G. Kearney 554; G. Schneider 210-552; Jack Haulenbeck 201-550; Leo Bechtold 547; N. Savino 542; J. Spadafora 540; Frank Nerone 204-539; J. Lucas 535; Leroy Webber ditto; Joe Hoffman 534; H. Grube 200-526; Joe Bartsch, Sr. 523.

Five other hit "400" or better: Lillian Ferraro 423, Mae Martalto 423; Dorothea Walthery 415, Nellie Alverson 411 and Nell Glennon 401. Nellie Alverson's 164 was high single for the night.

Reta Frederick turned in the lone 500 triple in a low scoring session of the Gold Division of the Colonial Women's League Wednesday night at the Bowlatorium.

Other noteworthy efforts included Dot Flemings with 492; Evelyn Gross 483; Evelyn Francis 477; Doris Wolff 477; Charlotte Lapine 476; Mary Bonacci 469; Bertha Schaller 467 and R. Rhymer 460.

A new high individual triple for the Silver Division was turned in last night by Helen McDougall who rapped out a 490 series on sticks of 191-178-121.

Mabel Davis fired 478; Sally Kuehn 453; Eleanor Dumenigo 443.

Tossing games of 154-145-164 V. Janeczek paced the pin-busting in the Pioneer Women's League wheel at the Bowlodrome Wednesday night with a 463 triple.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The 75 odd diners had just consumed a delicious, golden brown half broiler as only Leherbs can serve it, when Arthur A. Davis, known to the linksmen as Art, arose for the kickoff remarks at the annual President's Dinner.

Mr. Davis, who was recently honored by election to a second term as Wiltwyck Golf Club president, confided to his members that he was oratorically sure of himself only in private conferences behind closed doors. When he looks across the table and asks the guy if he has enough collateral to back up the loan.

Subsequent developments, however, proved the barrel-chested bank president a more than adequate speaker. He praised everyone concerned with the huge success enjoyed by Wiltwyck this season; chided Dr. Fred Holcomb for transferring his allegiance from "that other club in town" to Wiltwyck. All this, of course, after Roy Vogt had subjected the doctor to a 9 and 8 trouncing in the first city championship five years ago.

Dr. Holcomb, an indefatigable worker and promoter withstood the shock of Mr. Davis' oratorical burst and responded in kind. Then came the introduction of a long list of Wiltwyck champions and notables.

Ray LeFevre, a member of Wiltwyck's Old Guard and generally regarded as the club's historian, accepted the Seniors trophy and promptly repudiated reports that he had trumped up the seniors tournament because he was growing too old to win any other club competition. Ray also had a few words to say about the early days of Wiltwyck, its progress through the years and he paid outstanding tribute to President Davis and Tommy Danaher, the club pro.

There were other champions, too. Bill Van Aken, two-time city and Wiltwyck kingpin, who picked up a nice trophy and made his maiden speaking effort a commendable performance. Jessie Burnett accepted the women's championship trophy and another award for copping the ringer tournament. Murray Greene received the huge President's trophy and modestly remarked that his victory could happen to anyone (who had enough strokes).

You looked around and saw many familiar faces, nice people who always make you feel at home . . and occasionally needle you gently because you play "at that other club." Reggie Winters popped up just in time to avert a tie-swap between her husband, Jimmy, and the writer. (Frankly, readers, we would have been stuck, but Mrs. Winters couldn't see it that way.) . . . Dottie Rifenbary told a couple of cute jokes and proudly displayed photos of the newborn. Meanwhile, Dr. Rifenbary guffawed when we related how the New York Giants had deposited Otto Graham on his posterior about a dozen times in the recent pro football game in New York. Mr. Graham, the former Northwestern University passing ace and big gun with the Cleveland Browns, having been Mrs. Rifenbary's schoolgirl crush. . . . Ralph Gardner, a man of exacting gastronomical tastes, putting his stamp of approval on the half broiler and wondering out loud why we never made that proposed trip to Grossingers "in the mountains."

Tom and Dee Danaher got a nice round of applause and Dee was half choked with emotion as she accepted a token of appreciation from the ladies of Wiltwyck. Mayme Hutton made the presentation speech neatly and precisely. Who stole the show? That's easy anytime the Wiltwyck gang gets together. Who, but Mrs. Raymond "If You Knew Susie" LeFevre. Who is Sylvia? Could it be anyone except the beauteous Mrs. Reuben Leventhal whose stunning camel hair coat had the females oohing and aahing. Carl Husta swapped gags with Ralph Gardner in his role as "coach" for Bill Van Aken. Former club champions Maurice Davenport, Leon Randall and Watts Bailey, the little man with the big horse laugh, very much in evidence. Three great golfers who along with Dr. Holcomb, Joe Kwasney and Van Aken will be a bulwark against Twaalfskill threats in the future. Marge Jansen being applauded because her bowling totals no longer resemble her golf scores. . . . Charlie Mierowitz, a grand host who always takes good care of lonely bachelors. Lack of space prohibts listing the names of all the other fine folks who made this occasion a great milestone in Wiltwyck's social history.

In the interests of accuracy and detail, it must be recorded that late in the evening, an unidentified, well-dressed gentleman moved into the gathering. According to fragmentary information (nobody really knew the guy) he is supposed to be an insurance adjustor, with a reputation for top drawer taste in clothes and gastronomics. Someone else remarked that he might be a member of that "obscure club downtown." What's the name of that club?

Co-Captains Named

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 9 (AP)—Two juniors, Guard Roman Rutkowski of Cleveland, Ohio, and Quarterback Walt Laprarie of Freeport, N. Y., today were named Rutgers' co-captains for the Lafayette game Saturday. Rutkowski, 210-pound line backer, will lead the defensive platoon, while Laprarie, ace Scarlet passer, will make decisions for the offensive unit. Both offensive and defensive lines will be weakened for the middle three contest by the loss of three starters sidelined with leg injuries. Bill Pellington of Ramsey and John Schuck of Valley Stream, N. Y., are offensive regulars at tackle and guard, respectively. Burt Arnold of Linden holds down tackle position on the first defensive line.

43 Set for Block

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 9 (AP)—Forty-three yearlings from the Hanover Shoe Farms, Hanover, Pa., were scheduled to go on the block today as the annual standard bred sale continued at the State Farm Show Arena. Another 41 of the Hanover youngsters were auctioned off yesterday, bringing a total of $101,350 for an average of $2,477. With three days of trading already completed a total of 632 horses have been sold for $573,900.

Conference Slated On Free Enterprise

A community leaders conference, sponsored by the Kingston Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the National Association of Manufacturers, will be held on November 20 and 21, at the Stuyvesant Hotel. Frederick J. K. Ertel, president of the Ertel Engineering Corporation, will be the conference chairman, and George V. D. Hutton, prominent brick manufacturer, will make the opening remarks.

"The conference is part of a broad Chamber of Commerce project to spread understanding of the American free enterprise system," said Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, "and a recognition of the benefits and advantages it has bestowed upon our citizens."

The National Association of Manufacturers is providing two speakers, Russell C. Ross and Stanley L. Phraner.

Ross has had a broad experience as author, educator, lecturer and sales consultant over a 25-year period. He has been a public school superintendent and university professor and has done public relations work for large corporations.

Phraner is an economist with a broad experience dating back over 25 years. During the last World War he was executive secretary of the Combined Production and Resources Board.

Attendance at the two-day conference is open to interested community leaders, including business, religious, professional civic and industrial. Those interested in attending may contact the Kingston Chamber of Commerce office. Registration will start at 9:45 a. m. each day. The program will start promptly at 10 and close at 3:30 p. m. Luncheon will be served at noon and reservations must be made in advance. The only charge will be for the luncheon.

Each person in attendance will receive a manual containing valuable information for future reference. Ways and means of disseminating information about the advantages of free private enterprise system will also be considered.

Faster Formation Seen

New York, Nov. 9 (AP)—Warren Austin says the New Chinese Communist threat in Korea may mean faster formation by United Nations of fighting units for that area. Austin, chief U. S. delegate to the U.N., last night told the fall meeting of the Academy of Political Science: "The organization of units for service in Korea is in progress in some countries, and may be accelerated by the threat of invasion made by Communist forces on the border of Korea." In discussing the "border" forces, Austin did not mention China by name.

Portuguese Empire

At its peak the Portuguese empire included territories in Brazil, East and West Africa, Malabar, Ceylon, India, Persia, Indi-China and Malaya.

Sugar Ray Settles For Split Verdict

Chicago, Nov. 9 (AP) — Welterweight champion Ray "Sugar" Robinson won another fight last night, settling for a 10-round split decision when a knockout seemed inevitable several times.

The victim of Robinson's 121st victory was Bobby Dykes, young and game Miami, Fla., hopeful.

The match was not for Sugar's title. He weighed 157 pounds, 10 pounds over the welter limit, to Dykes' 148½.

Despite the champion's evident superiority, it was a split decision. The referee and one judge gave the decision to Robinson. A second judge voted the bout a draw.

A slim crowd of 5,794, probably held down by a television showing of the bout, paid a gross gate of $21,233.

Several times during the fight, especially during the last rounds, Robinson's two-handed flurries left the 22-year-old Dykes nearly helpless. But each time, when it seemed the champion could not be denied a knockout, Sugar backed away, letting Dykes recuperate.

Dykes followed these episodes with furious but generally futile assaults on the 30-year-old Robinson and was cheered for his aggressiveness.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The 75 odd diners had just consumed a delicious, golden brown half broiler as only Leherbs can serve it, when Arthur A. Davis, known to the linksmen as Art, arose for the kickoff remarks at the annual President's Dinner.

Mr. Davis, who was recently honored by election to a second term as Wiltwyck Golf Club president, confided to his members that he was oratorically sure of himself only in private conferences behind closed doors. When he looks across the table and asks the guy if he has enough collateral to back up the loan.

Subsequent developments, however, proved the barrel-chested bank president a more than adequate speaker. He praised everyone concerned with the huge success enjoyed by Wiltwyck this season; chided Dr. Fred Holcomb for transferring his allegiance from "that other club in town" to Wiltwyck. All this, of course, after Roy Vogt had subjected the doctor to a 9 and 8 trouncing in the first city championship five years ago.

Dr. Holcomb, an indefatigable worker and promoter withstood the shock of Mr. Davis' oratorical burst and responded in kind. Then came the introduction of a long list of Wiltwyck champions and notables.

Ray LeFevre, a member of Wiltwyck's Old Guard and generally regarded as the club's historian, accepted the Seniors trophy and promptly repudiated reports that he had trumped up the seniors tournament because he was growing too old to win any other club competition. Ray also had a few words to say about the early days of Wiltwyck, its progress through the years and he paid outstanding tribute to President Davis and Tommy Danaher, the club pro.

There were other champions, too. Bill Van Aken, two-time city and Wiltwyck kingpin, who picked up a nice trophy and made his maiden speaking effort a commendable performance. Jessie Burnett accepted the women's championship trophy and another award for copping the ringer tournament. Murray Greene received the huge President's trophy and modestly remarked that his victory could happen to anyone (who had enough strokes).

You looked around and saw many familiar faces, nice people who always make you feel at home . . and occasionally needle you gently because you play "at that other club." Reggie Winters popped up just in time to avert a tie-swap between her husband, Jimmy, and the writer. (Frankly, readers, we would have been stuck, but Mrs. Winters couldn't see it that way.) . . . Dottie Rifenbary told a couple of cute jokes and proudly displayed photos of the newborn. Meanwhile, Dr. Rifenbary guffawed when we related how the New York Giants had deposited Otto Graham on his posterior about a dozen times in the recent pro football game in New York. Mr. Graham, the former Northwestern University passing ace and big gun with the Cleveland Browns, having been Mrs. Rifenbary's schoolgirl crush. . . . Ralph Gardner, a man of exacting gastronomical tastes, putting his stamp of approval on the half broiler and wondering out loud why we never made that proposed trip to Grossingers "in the mountains."

Tom and Dee Danaher got a nice round of applause and Dee was half choked with emotion as she accepted a token of appreciation from the ladies of Wiltwyck. Mayme Hutton made the presentation speech neatly and precisely. Who stole the show? That's easy anytime the Wiltwyck gang gets together. Who, but Mrs. Raymond "If You Knew Susie" LeFevre. Who is Sylvia? Could it be anyone except the beauteous Mrs. Reuben Leventhal whose stunning camel hair coat had the females oohing and aahing. Carl Husta swapped gags with Ralph Gardner in his role as "coach" for Bill Van Aken. Former club champions Maurice Davenport, Leon Randall and Watts Bailey, the little man with the big horse laugh, very much in evidence. Three great golfers who along with Dr. Holcomb, Joe Kwasney and Van Aken will be a bulwark against Twaalfskill threats in the future. Marge Jansen being applauded because her bowling totals no longer resemble her golf scores. . . . Charlie Mierowitz, a grand host who always takes good care of lonely bachelors. Lack of space prohibts listing the names of all the other fine folks who made this occasion a great milestone in Wiltwyck's social history.

In the interests of accuracy and detail, it must be recorded that late in the evening, an unidentified, well-dressed gentleman moved into the gathering. According to fragmentary information (nobody really knew the guy) he is supposed to be an insurance adjustor, with a reputation for top drawer taste in clothes and gastronomics. Someone else remarked that he might be a member of that "obscure club downtown." What's the name of that club?

Co-Captains Named

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 9 (AP)—Two juniors, Guard Roman Rutkowski of Cleveland, Ohio, and Quarterback Walt Laprarie of Freeport, N. Y., today were named Rutgers' co-captains for the Lafayette game Saturday. Rutkowski, 210-pound line backer, will lead the defensive platoon, while Laprarie, ace Scarlet passer, will make decisions for the offensive unit. Both offensive and defensive lines will be weakened for the middle three contest by the loss of three starters sidelined with leg injuries. Bill Pellington of Ramsey and John Schuck of Valley Stream, N. Y., are offensive regulars at tackle and guard, respectively. Burt Arnold of Linden holds down tackle position on the first defensive line.

43 Set for Block

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 9 (AP)—Forty-three yearlings from the Hanover Shoe Farms, Hanover, Pa., were scheduled to go on the block today as the annual standard bred sale continued at the State Farm Show Arena. Another 41 of the Hanover youngsters were auctioned off yesterday, bringing a total of $101,550 for an average of $2,477. With three days of trading already completed a total of 632 horses have been sold for $573,900.

Conference Slated On Free Enterprise

A community leaders conference, sponsored by the Kingston Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the National Association of Manufacturers, will be held on November 20 and 21, at the Stuyvesant Hotel. Frederick J. K. Ertel, president of the Ertel Engineering Corporation, will be the conference chairman, and George V. D. Hutton, prominent brick manufacturer, will make the opening remarks.

"The conference is part of a broad Chamber of Commerce project to spread understanding of the American free enterprise system," said Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, "and a recognition of the benefits and advantages it has bestowed upon our citizens."

The National Association of Manufacturers is providing two speakers, Russell C. Ross and Stanley L. Phraner.

Ross has had a broad experience as author, educator, lecturer and sales consultant over a 25-year period. He has been a public school superintendent and university professor and has done public relations work for large corporations.

Phraner is an economist with a broad experience dating back over 25 years. During the last World War he was executive secretary of the Combined Production and Resources Board.

Attendance at the two-day conference is open to interested community leaders, including business, religious, professional civic and industrial. Those interested in attending may contact the Kingston Chamber of Commerce office. Registration will start at 9:45 a. m. each day. The program will start promptly at 10 and close at 3:30 p. m. Luncheon will be served at noon and reservations must be made in advance. The only charge will be for the luncheon.

Each person in attendance will receive a manual containing valuable information for future reference. Ways and means of disseminating information about the advantages of free private enterprise system will also be considered.

Faster Formation Seen

New York, Nov. 9 (AP)—Warren Austin says the New Chinese Communist threat in Korea may mean faster formation by United Nations of fighting units for that area. Austin, chief U. S. delegate to the U.N., last night told the fall meeting of the Academy of Political Science: "The organization of units for service in Korea is in progress in some countries, and may be accelerated by the threat of invasion made by Communist forces on the border of Korea." In discussing the "border" forces, Austin did not mention China by name.

Portuguese Empire

At its peak the Portuguese empire included territories in Brazil, East and West Africa, Malabar, Ceylon, India, Persia, Indi-China and Malaya.

Sugar Ray Settles For Split Verdict

Chicago, Nov. 9 (AP) — Welterweight champion Ray "Sugar" Robinson won another fight last night, settling for a 10-round split decision when a knockout seemed inevitable several times.

The victim of Robinson's 121st victory was Bobby Dykes, young and game Miami, Fla., hopeful.

The match was not for Sugar's title. He weighed 157 pounds, 10 pounds over the welter limit, to Dykes' 148½.

Despite the champion's evident superiority, it was a split decision. The referee and one judge gave the decision to Robinson. A second judge voted the bout a draw.

A slim crowd of 5,794, probably held down by a television showing of the bout, paid a gross gate of $21,233.

Several times during the fight, especially during the last rounds, Robinson's two-handed flurries left the 22-year-old Dykes nearly helpless. But each time, when it seemed the champion could not be denied a knockout, Sugar backed away, letting Dykes recuperate.

Dykes followed these episodes with furious but generally futile assaults on the 30-year-old Robinson and was cheered for his aggressiveness.

Endorse Girl Scout Movement

Judge John M. Cashin and District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn have endorsed the Girl Scout movement. In connection with the current financial campaign they have issued the following statements:

Judge Cashin: I endorse Girl Scouting because it is character building, teaches respect for discipline, has a program of varied activities and keeps young girls occupied.

District Attorney Bruhn: I have always had a strong conviction that children whose activities are channeled in healthy outlets are children who rarely, if ever, have occasion to encounter law enforcement agencies. I feel that the Girl Scouts provide a very satisfactory and suitable outlet for the proper type of activities for girls of the ages served by the Girl Scouts. So long as the Girl Scouts remain an active organization in our community I am of the opinion that the percentage of crime involving girls of the ages eligible for Girl Scouting will certainly be held to a minimum.

Child Is Electrocuted

Philadelphia, Nov. 9 (AP) — A five-year-old girl was electrocuted when a washing machine wringer caught her hand and shoved the fingers into an electric socket. The child, Essie Sanders, was playing in the kitchen of her home last night while her mother, Mrs. Jane Sanders, 22, was doing the family laundry. Mrs. Sanders told police her daughter was standing in some water spilled on the floor when the child's fingers touched the electric socket dangling down from the ceiling. Mrs. Sanders was knocked unconscious as she tried to rescue the little girl.

Two Ex-Troopers Given Suspended Sentences in Case

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 9 (AP)—Two former state troopers received suspended sentences today on their pleas of guilty to charges of defrauding the state of retirement pay.

County Judge Earl H. Gallup imposed a one-year suspended sentence on Reginald W. Case, 49, of Woodstock and a six-month suspended sentence on Fred C. Britton, 48, of Potsdam.

Case pleaded guilty Oct. 25 to one count of a 128-count indictment charging him with defrauding the state of $6,493 in retirement pay.

Gallup dismissed the other 127 counts on the recommendation of Harman N. Harcourt, assistant attorney general. Harcourt said Case had made complete restitution to the state.

Britton pleaded guilty today to one count of a 110-count indictment. All were misdemeanor counts, charging him with defrauding the state.

The other 109 counts were dismissed after Harcourt told the court that Britton had repaid a considerable amount and was repaying the balance.

Case was charged with knowingly making a false statement with the intent of defrauding the state when he applied for a pension payment for the month of August, 1947. He said he had not received pay from private employment during the period.

N. LeVan Haver of Kingston was attorney for Case.

New Brake Developed

Troy, N. Y., Nov. 9 (AP)—An automobile brake, operated by a push button on the steering wheel instead of by a foot pedal, is being developed by research engineers at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. The school's department of mechanical engineering said today it had developed a "magnetic fluid brake," which might replace the present type of automobile brakes. The gripping agent in the new brake is a thin fluid, which becomes progressively more solid in proportion to the amount of electric current passing through it. The electric current, from the vehicle's battery, is controlled by a push button.

Home Important Factor in Growth Of the Adolescent

"The home still remains dynamically the most important factor in the growth of the adolescent," Dr. C. Douglas Darling, professor of clinical medicine at Cornell University, Ithaca, told an audience of 200 professional workers here Wednesday night.

Dr. Darling spoke at the second of a series of four sessions scheduled by the Mental Health Committee of the Ulster Tuberculosis and Health Association. The sessions, held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, were planned to acquaint local doctors, nurses, teachers and other professional workers with the aspects of mental hygiene.

Needs of the adolescent, according to Dr. Darling, include the need for responsibility, the need "to be allowed to fail occassionally without being lambasted for it," the need for love without knowing how to return love, the need for discipline and the need of "belonging."

Dr. Darling advised the professional workers not to minimize the problems of the adolescents, and especially not to treat so-called "puppy love" too lightly. "Puppy love is just as deep as any emotional attachment in life," he said.

Warren Won by Million

San Francisco, Nov. 9 (AP)—Republican Gov. Earl Warren defeated Democrat James Roosevelt by over a million votes in California's gubernatorial election—and the returns aren't all in. Results from 17,234 of the 18,408 precincts magnified the governor's third term victory over the son of the late president. The vote: Warren 2,253,276; Roosevelt 1,229,247.

Endorse Girl Scout Movement

Judge John M. Cashin and District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn have endorsed the Girl Scout movement. In connection with the current financial campaign they have issued the following statements:

Judge Cashin: I endorse Girl Scouting because it is character building, teaches respect for discipline, has a program of varied activities and keeps young girls occupied.

District Attorney Bruhn: I have always had a strong conviction that children whose activities are channeled in healthy outlets are children who rarely, if ever, have occasion to encounter law enforcement agencies. I feel that the Girl Scouts provide a very satisfactory and suitable outlet for the proper type of activities for girls of the ages served by the Girl Scouts. So long as the Girl Scouts remain an active organization in our community I am of the opinion that the percentage of crime involving girls of the ages eligible for Girl Scouting will certainly be held to a minimum.

Philadelphia, Nov. 9 (AP) — A five-year-old girl was electrocuted when a washing machine wringer caught her hand and shoved the fingers into an electric socket. The child, Essie Sanders, was playing in the kitchen of her home last night while her mother, Mrs. Jane Sanders, 22, was doing the family laundry. Mrs. Sanders told police her daughter was standing in some water spilled on the floor when the child's fingers touched the electric socket dangling down from the ceiling. Mrs. Sanders was knocked unconscious as she tried to rescue the little girl.

Two Ex-Troopers Given Suspended Sentences in Case

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 9 (AP)—Two former state troopers received suspended sentences today on their pleas of guilty to charges of defrauding the state of retirement pay.

County Judge Earl H. Gallup imposed a one-year suspended sentence on Reginald W. Case, 49, of Woodstock and a six-month suspended sentence on Fred C. Britton, 48, of Potsdam.

Case pleaded guilty Oct. 25 to one count of a 128-count indictment charging him with defrauding the state of $6,493 in retirement pay.

Gallup dismissed the other 127 counts on the recommendation of Harman N. Harcourt, assistant attorney general. Harcourt said Case had made complete restitution to the state.

Britton pleaded guilty today to one count of a 110-count indictment. All were misdemeanor counts, charging him with defrauding the state.

The other 109 counts were dismissed after Harcourt told the court that Britton had repaid a considerable amount and was repaying the balance.

Case was charged with knowingly making a false statement with the intent of defrauding the state when he applied for a pension payment for the month of August, 1947. He said he had not received pay from private employment during the period.

N. LeVan Haver of Kingston was attorney for Case.

New Brake Developed

Troy, N. Y., Nov. 9 (AP)—An automobile brake, operated by a push button on the steering wheel instead of by a foot pedal, is being developed by research engineers at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. The school's department of mechanical engineering said today it had developed a "magnetic fluid brake," which might replace the present type of automobile brakes. The gripping agent in the new brake is a thin fluid, which becomes progressively more solid in proportion to the amount of electric current passing through it. The electric current, from the vehicle's battery, is controlled by a push button.

Home Important Factor in Growth Of the Adolescent

"The home still remains dynamically the most important factor in the growth of the adolescent," Dr. C. Douglas Darling, professor of clinical medicine at Cornell University, Ithaca, told an audience of 200 professional workers here Wednesday night.

Dr. Darling spoke at the second of a series of four sessions scheduled by the Mental Health Committee of the Ulster Tuberculosis and Health Association. The sessions, held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, were planned to acquaint local doctors, nurses, teachers and other professional workers with the aspects of mental hygiene.

Needs of the adolescent, according to Dr. Darling, include the need for responsibility, the need "to be allowed to fail occassionally without being lambasted for it," the need for love without knowing how to return love, the need for discipline and the need of "belonging."

Dr. Darling advised the professional workers not to minimize the problems of the adolescents, and especially not to treat so-called "puppy love" too lightly. "Puppy love is just as deep as any emotional attachment in life," he said.
